Suit highlights enduring conflict

By EMILY PREVITI
epreviti@nwnewsgroup.com

ZION — Sunbeams bounce off of René Diaz's shades. Their rainbow iridescence obscures his eyes. But his grin, white against his deep, nearly burnt, tan, proves his love of the beach.

So, naturally, he chose to spend a sunny afternoon in June on the shoreline of the Illinois Beach State Park.

But Diaz, 36, of Waukegan, explained that he would not go into the water. He barred himself from Lake Michigan after he heard last year about contamination of Waukegan Harbor, where he still frequents the beach.

"People go in the water there, but don't mind," he said. "They see the signs."

These signs, which the park posts as well, warn of the presence of asbestos-containing material (ACM) and instruct those who encounter pieces of the material to contact park officials.

Diaz said he had not seen the signs in Zion, but said he would continue to go to both beaches.

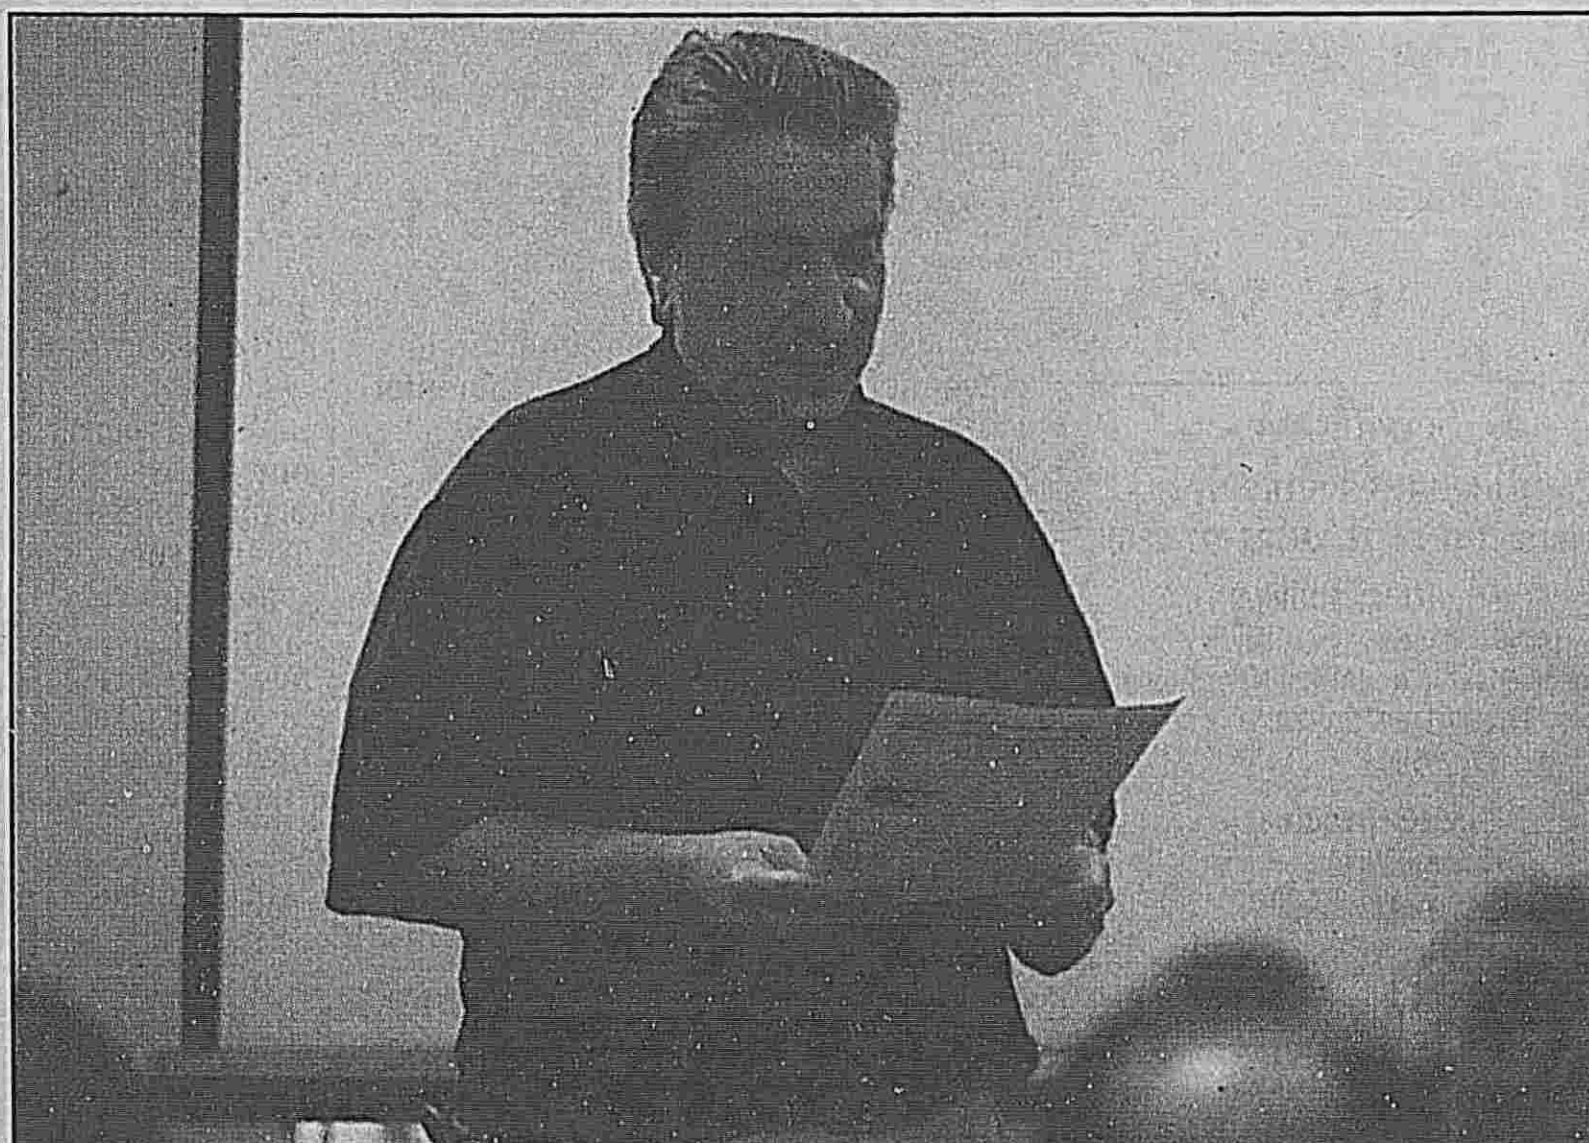

"See all these people here?" Diaz said, with a gesture to the cars in the lot behind the beach. "I'm not going to go in the water, but I'm still going to go on the beach."

According to a pamphlet produced by the Illinois Dunesland Preservation Society, exposure to asbestos could occur through microscopic fibers that the sand releases when agitated; i.e., exposure would require neither swimming nor handling of ACM, but merely breathing the air while sitting or strolling along the shore.

● Editor's Choice by Larry Lough

For our readers, those three little words ...

More. Better. Faster.

These days, that is what information consumers expect, and that is what information companies must deliver.

This week in your Journal, the "more" includes a new sports column by Kevin Kaduk, who is a former Chicago-area and Kansas City sports writer, and the author of "Wrigleyville."

About his 304-page book, Esquire magazine wrote, "[F]inally, a young man has written a young man's baseball book."

As part of our weekly sports mix in the Journal, Kevin will bring a little Chicago flavor to the suburbs. Look for it each week.

In the "better" category, new people and a new editing system are working to bring Journal readers a "cleaner" read. That means a lot fewer grammatical and typographical errors.

Like every other newspaper, we will never be perfect. But we will try to be.

As for faster, have you checked out the new weeklyjournals.com site?

For now, it has content from our 12 weekly print editions of the Journal. But it soon also will be providing updates on a daily - and sometimes hourly - basis, as the news dictates.

It's said that the problem with people in the newspapers business is that they think they're in the newspaper business.

We know it's about information - in ink, online and otherwise.

As always, your comments are welcome. Send e-mail to llough@nwnewsgroup.com.

Thanks for reading the Journal.

On the move

Centegra office heads to McHenry

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — As of July 1, the Centegra Primary Care office at 935 Skidmore Drive will be empty.

Centegra officials are looking to sell the medical office building, said Robert Turngren, a family doctor and vice president of Centegra Primary Care, a subsidiary program of Centegra Health Systems.

The two doctors in the Antioch office, one a pediatrician, will relocate to the primary care center in McHenry, Turngren said. He hopes patients will follow these physicians to McHenry.

Centegra leaders are working to refocus their resources, Turngren said, and move facilities closer to the company's headquarters in McHenry.

"We never like to close a site, but we can't be all things to all people," Turngren said.

Miss Antioch queens crowned

By TARA CLIFTON

ANTIOCH — Rain didn't get in the way of anybody's fun Sunday, June 18. Not even for the village's newly-crowned royalty.

When the showers stopped that afternoon, Little Miss and Junior Miss Antioch splashed in the puddles while Miss Antioch looked on.

Mary Cashmore, 17, Jessica DeLara, 11, and Jasmine DeLara, 8, performed their first duties as Miss, Junior Miss and Little Miss Antioch, respectively, at the Arts and Crafts Faire downtown over the weekend.

The three were named Antioch's 2006 royalty Saturday, June 17. Miss Antioch Mary Cashmore will receive $1,600 at the end of her reign to the college of her choice. All three will represent Antioch at many community activities.

Our Town

Fighting the cancer battle

In about a month, dozens of people will gather to honor loved ones who have fought cancer. They also will raise money so in the future no one else will have to battle the disease.

The American Cancer Society's Relay for Life event takes place county-wide, with the Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst relay starting at 6 p.m. on Saturday, July 29, at Lakes Community High School in Lake Villa. The relay ends at 6 p.m. the next day.

More than 35 teams already have signed up, but coordinators are still taking signups.

During the 12-hour fundraiser, each team member walks around a track for contributions. Teams also are working hard at raising funds in other ways.

Also on site will be line dancing, a children's activity tent, food, music and more.

Performers include Lou DePasqua, who used to tour with Styx. He will sing a tribute to his late wife.

If you want to sign up to help out with this worthwhile cause, contact Becky Koman at (847) 356-4378 or Angela Tatgenhorst at (847) 875-6417.

It will be worth your time.

Village plans bash for Fourth of July

WWII veterans will be honored

ANTIOCH — This year's Independence Day extravaganza, "Antioch's Hometown Heroes," will honor World War II veterans, the grand marshalls of the day-long festivities.

Lake Villa and Lindenhurst do not host any July Fourth events, but all are welcome to attend the smorgasbord of activities Antioch will offer.

The day begins with the 5K Run for Freedom at 8 a.m. The Antioch Community Choir will sing patriotic tunes at 10:15 a.m. on the corner of Lake and Main streets. The parade starts at 11 a.m. at Antioch High School, and swimming at Williams Park is from noon to 8 p.m. for 25 cents per person. Fireworks begin around 9 p.m.

Other activities include the First National Bank - Employee Owned's sports tournament, the Children's Fun Fair, Family Fun and Games, water balloon contests, sack races and more.

Most activities take place at Williams Park, on Williams Street off Route 83 near downtown Antioch.

The following people and numbers can be used to get more information or volunteer:

Church volunteers brighten Lambs

By REBECCA KLUGIEWICZ
rklugiewicz@nwnewsgroup.com

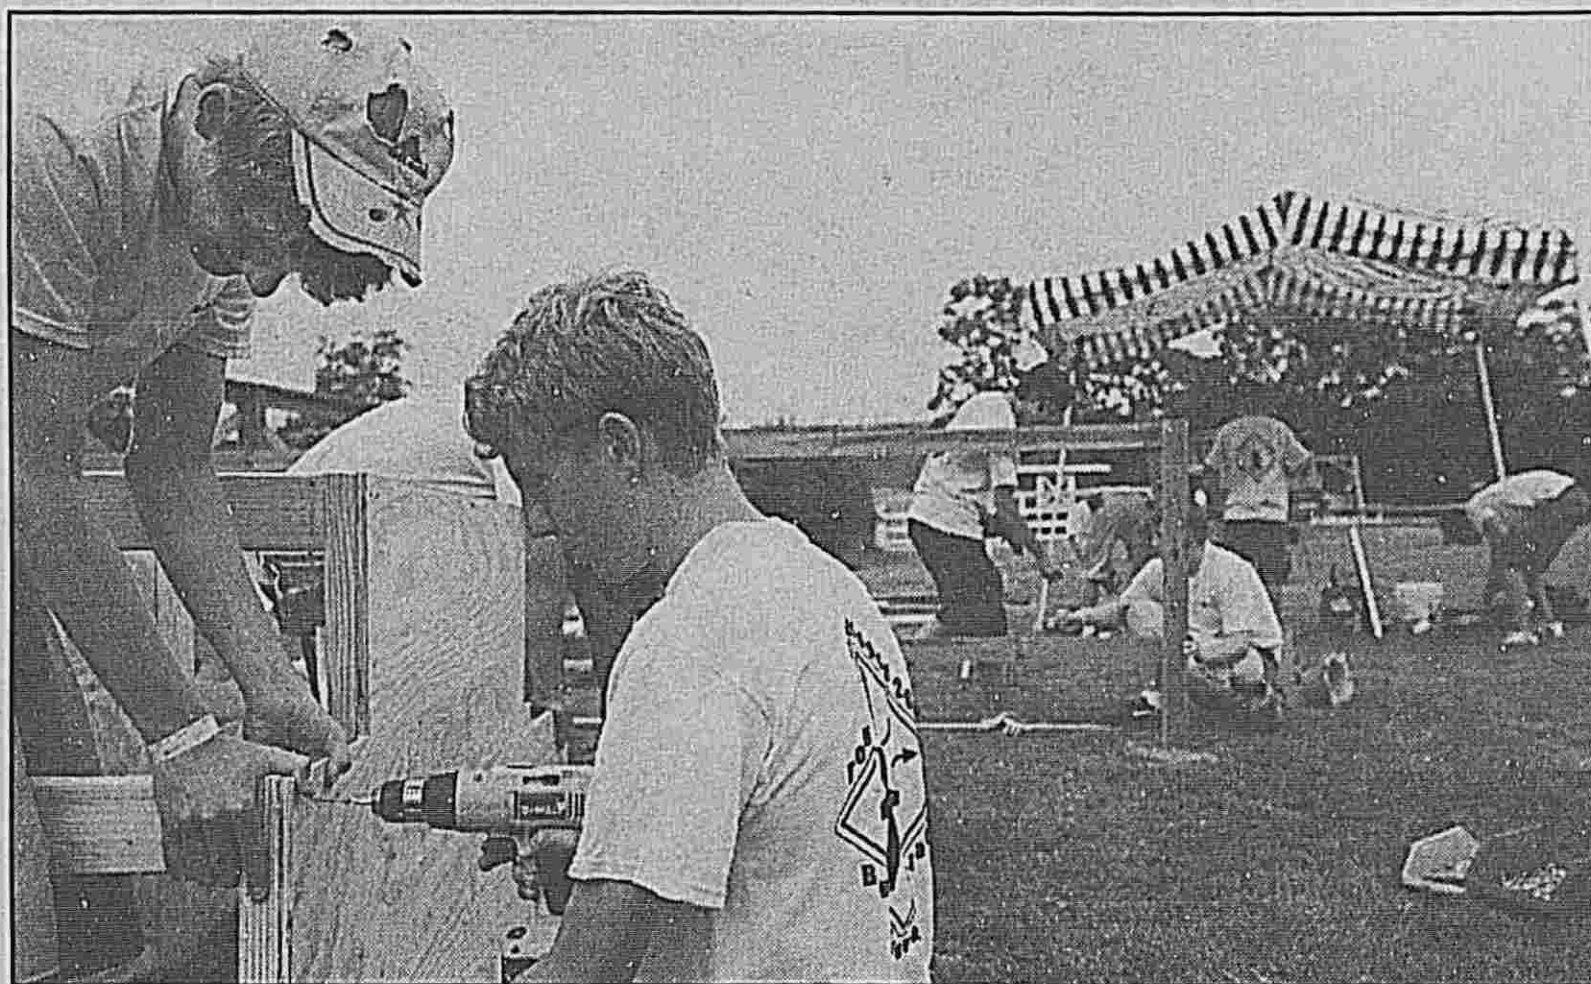

MUNDELEIN – About 200 volunteers in bright yellow shirts braved the heat last week to make improvements around Lambs Farm in Libertyville.

About 170 young adults, ranging in age from 12 to 18, and 30 adult volunteers from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints gathered for a youth conference called "Arise and Shine Forth."

The theme for the youth conference changes each year, according to Tina Kitchen of Vernon Hills. She and her husband Pat, the Stake Young Mens' President, served as adult supervisors for the event.

Past conferences have included a dance festival, a wilderness conference, and church history trips. This year was a service project, and Kitchen said Lambs Farm is a great place to help out.

Her husband said the service project is a way for the young adults to learn responsibility.

"What we're trying to do is get our youth to develop character and get them to live their religion," he said.

The volunteers spent nearly 7 hours at Lambs Farm last Friday, washing walls, painting sidewalks, planting gardens, cleaning farm yards, building toys for goats and more.

John Bishop, 17, of Zion, spent much of the day edging.

"I think it's important to be able to build your character," Bishop said.

Bishop said he enjoys being able to help out around his hometown.

"I think it's better to help people in your community," he said.

Another volunteer, Tyler Westbrook, 18, of McHenry, came farther to help out.

"It doesn't matter where you go. Service is service," Westbrook said. "It makes you appreciate what you have."

District 34 board member resigns

Wilson officially resigning July 18; applications for seat due June 30

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH – School District 34 board member Kathy Wilson alerted her colleagues late last week that she is leaving. Officials hope to have her replacement within a month.

Superintendent Scott Thompson said Wilson's resignation will be effective when she officially submits it during the July 18 school board meeting. Wilson's successor should be named the same day.

Applications for the empty seat are due Friday, June 30. Candidates must reside within the school district and be at least 18 years old.

Information packets and applications can be picked up from the district office at 800 N. Main St. Applications can be downloaded at www.antioch34.com.

More information can be obtained by calling the office at (847) 838-8401 or by e-mailing rmohr@antioch34.com.

Thompson said Wilson resigned because she is moving out of the district, disqualifying her from the board. Members serve four-year terms.

Thompson said he and other board members will miss her.

"She's really done a lot for the district," Thompson said.

Land could hold new high school

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH – School District 117 is expected to close a deal on a land purchase by the second week of July.

Superintendent Jay Sabatino said board members are negotiating the details of a contract with Sylvia Matz, representative of the Matz Trust, a tract of 41 acres on Edwards Road, just west of Crawford Avenue.

Officials have held several closed-session meetings, touring the property and discussing its possible uses. The land costs $1.75 million, Sabatino said.

A new high school could be built on the land, Sabatino said.

"We're looking down the road. Perhaps in the next 10 to 15 years the district may have to build another high school," Sabatino said in response to current population growth and future estimates.

Police arrest woman for child endangerment

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnnewsgr.com

LINDENHURST—A flat tire ended up sending one Lake Villa woman to court.

Police arrested Edina M. Roesch, 47, 405 Farmhill Court, Lake Villa, for driving drunk with her two young boys in the passenger seats.

A Lindenhurst officer was on patrol around 5:33 p.m. Thursday, June 15, when he spotted a maroon Pontiac van sitting on the side of Country Place, north of Rosewood, in Country Place South subdivision.

The van's front left tire was flat, and a large hole was in the door on the same side of the vehicle. When the officer approached the driver, Roesch, he smelled alcohol on her breath.

Roesch was unable to properly perform the sobriety tests, according to police reports. She kept sitting down and asking for a cigarette.

Roesch also claimed that her tire "just blew," reports state. However, her two boys, 8 and 10, told the police officer that she ran into a curb.

Roesch was arrested on charges of DUI, DUI over 0.08, and two counts of child endangerment. She later was released on bond.

Roesch will appear at 9 a.m. Tuesday, July 18, before the county court in Waukegan.

A Brief Biography

Rodman Philbrick grew up on the New England coast, where he worked as a longshoreman and boat builder. For many years he wrote mysteries and detective novels. The Private Eye Writers of America nominated two of his T.D. Stash series as best detective novel and then selected Philbrick's 'Brothers & Sinners' as Best Novel in 1993. Writing under the pen name 'William R. Dantz' he has explored the near-future worlds of genetic engineering and hi-tech brain control in books like "Hunger," "Pulse," "The Seventh Sleeper" and "Nine Levels Down."

Inspired by the life of a boy who lived a few blocks away, he wrote "Freak The Mighty," the award-winning young-adult novel, which has been translated into numerous languages and is now read in schools throughout the world. The book was adapted to the screen in 1998 as "The Mighty," starring Sharon Stone, Gillian Anderson, James Gandolfini, Kieran Culkin, and Elden Henson.

Philbrick, a screenwriter as well as a novelist, is the author of a number of novels for young readers, including "The Fire Pony," "Max the Mighty," "REM World," "The Last Book In The Universe" and "The Journal of Douglas Allen Deeds." His recent novels for adults include "Dark Matter" and "Coffins." He and his wife divide their time between Maine and the Florida Keys.

Case one of several clashes between activists and officials

suit that claims the Illinois Department of Public Health and Illinois Department of Natural Resources violated the society's rights to free speech when the agencies barred distribution of the pamphlet in 2004.

Donald Metzger, the society's attorney, said the suit seeks an injunction against the state agencies and individuals therein to enable pamphlet distribution.

The lawsuit states that IDNR and IDPH took issue with the pamphlets' contents: six tips to minimize one's exposure to ACM, a description of the society and explanation of the presence of ACM due to actions of IDNR and IDPH.

Marcelyn Love, spokesperson for the IDNR, declined to comment on the agency's specific problems with the contents.

Scott Mulford, of the attorney general's office, declined to comment on behalf of IDPH.

Former Assistant Surgeon General of the United States, Richard A. Lemen, Ph.D., has researched and written about asbestos for three decades. Currently, he advises the Asbestos Disease Awareness Association, a nonprofit organization that focuses on public education.

He grappled with the notion that state agencies would not want to disseminate information to the public, though "could see maybe the fact that they are criticizing the agencies might not be a good thing."

Paul Kakuris, Dunesland's president, said the society neither approached the state agencies nor considered omitting the explanation of ACM's presence.

Lemen was adamant that IDNR, IDPH and the society "sit down and talk to one another and not take an aggressive stance."

"It would seem to me that this is a problem of two sides not talking to one another [and that] like the court could appoint a negotiator," he said.

According to Love, state agencies and the society have the common goal of the "safety of a park," and did not need to use a negotiator.

"We have open lines of communication with the Dunesland society," Love said.

Yet Kakuris and Metzger cited a lack of cooperation on the part of state officials as the very reason for their filing of the lawsuit.

"[They] just come up with all kinds of side-stepping and evasiveness," Kakuris said.

"Their antipathy is palpable," Metzger said.

Lemen, who worked for the Missouri Department of Health before his eventual ascent to assistant surgeon general, admitted that government officials bristle at groups who question them. He emphasized the importance of cooperation, especially between agencies that should share goals.

Studying science

Jeffrey Camplin, an asbestos abatement consultant who heads the American Society of Safety Engineers' Environmental Practice Specialty division, reviewed current ACM contamination concerns in 2003 at the request of the society.

Camplin has accused the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), IDPH, and University of Illinois at Chicago School of Public Health of taking a "cavalier approach" to their research, which found that no public health risk existed at the park. His report demanded investigation of more sites throughout the park and intensification of results' analysis.

It also called for the IDNR to increase efforts to inform the public about ACM and its presence in the park. The society first approached government agencies about the issue in 1998.

On May 17, 2006, the society filed one of several complaints with Attorney General Lisa Madigan's office after a hiker spotted ACM in the Camp Logan area in the park's interior. The complaint accused agencies, which include IDNR, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, USEPA, of dumping asbestos, or facilitating contamination as the result of asbestos, at the park, and covering up these actions.

The society also claims that IDNR downplays these accusations and the presence of ACM to prevent a dip in attendance at the park.

In the past, IDNR has accused Kakuris of misrepresenting the situation and IDNR's reaction to it.

IDPH issued reports in conjunction with the ATSDR in 1998 and 2000. Despite its finding that conditions remained safe for visitors to the park, it called for public education about ACM; specifically, a "fact sheet," "educational pamphlet," and "display boxes."

The 2005 report from UIC also found no public health risk at the park, but said friability - and, therefore, tendency to release fibers - was "unpredictable" and encouraged continuation of public education efforts until ACM no longer exists there.

Two fact sheets are available at the main office of the park.

Love was uncertain as to whether IDNR had ever worked with a private group to develop such materials, but said "experts" at IDNR typically produce them for IEPA and EPA to review.

Charles Green, spokesperson for the ATSDR, explained that organizations with a message to communicate to the public should use multiple channels to effectively do so.

Green said ATSDR looks to people with a health communi-

The legality of it all

The American Civil Liberties Union declares handing out leaflets as "permissible" and not requiring a permit, as such activities "do not cause traffic problems." According to the ACLU's website, "requiring people to get a permit for such nondisruptive activity is likely to be unconstitutional."

In 2004, Illinois Department of Natural Resources prohibited the Illinois Dunesland Preservation Society from distributing pamphlets that informed the public about asbestos containing material (ACM) until the society had obtained a demonstration permit, according to a release from the society.

"The fact that there might be some other form of action ... doesn't in any way mitigate the offense of the denial of their rights to display [the pamphlet]," Don Metzger, attorney for the society, said.

Paul Kakuris, president of the society, said the prohibition initially prompted filing on the state level in 2004.

The society withdrew the case from state court and re-filed it on the federal level on May 23, 2006. Metzger cited the federal court's expertise in handling suits that deal with constitutional issues. He also suggested that proximity to higher levels of government would improve chances of spreading awareness to those officials.

Metzger said the IDNR and IDPH must respond before the end of July.

cation background or consultants to collaborate with officials on the project. He also said ATSDR has worked with private citizens and organizations to produce such materials.

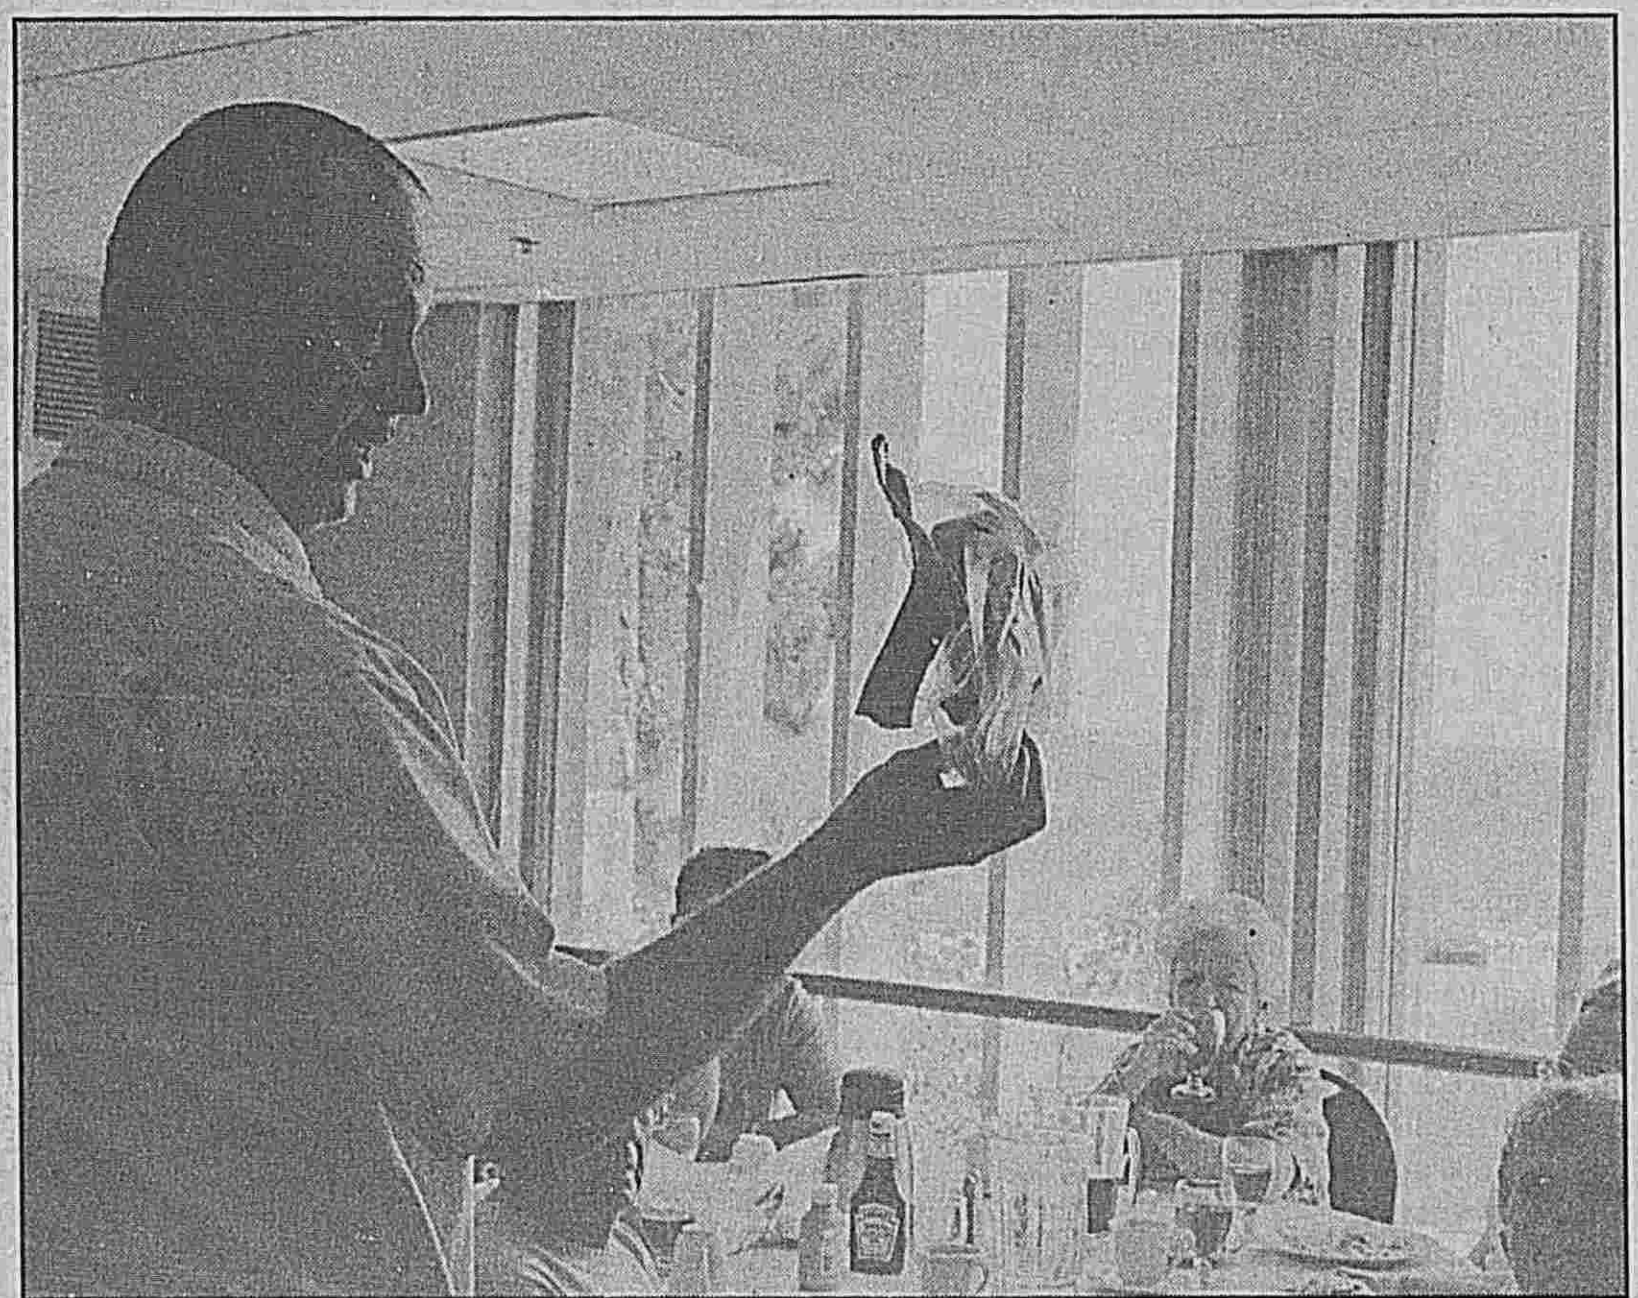

Lemen agreed that multiple avenues works best, and stressed that specifics depend upon one's target audience.

"But in general [one should] get the information out in factual terms...that are understandable," he said.

"The most important thing is they understand the message and they understand their risks, and then they are able to make the choice," Green said.

• This story is the third in a series of articles about asbestos contamination at Illinois Beach State Park.

Jeffery Camplin shows fellow members of Illinois Dunesland Preservation Society asbestos he found on Waukegan Beach. Camplin updated members on the asbestos issues at Illinois Sate Beach during their meeting in Illinois Beach State Park Resort's conference room.

Village invites vets to celebrate military service

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnewsgruop.com

ANTIOCH - The "It's Thursday" concert series will start off with a bang.

Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst residents are welcome to attend a concert celebrating veterans and current military members.

The festivities begin at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 29, at the William E. Brook Entertainment Center on 900 Skidmore Drive.

U.S. Army Brigadier General Ward Arntson will address the audience.

Musical performances will include the Lakes Area Community Band and Choir, the Kilties Drum and Bugle Corps and Color Guards.

Veterans will be seated at the front of the entertainment center according to the wars in which they served: World War II, Korea, Vietnam and post Vietnam. Each group will receive ribbons.

Those who plan to attend must RSVP to the village before June 26. Concert-goers should arrive no later than 7 p.m.

To register, call Cindy Voelz at (847) 395-1000, ext. 14, or e-mail her at cvoelz@antioch.il.gov.

Merchants create summer campaign

tclifton@nwnewsgruop.com

ANTIOCH - An old saying states that God helps those who help themselves.

Village merchants seem to be taking this to heart.

The marketing committee of the village merchants group and the Department of Community Services are working together to promote shopping and dining in the business district during the "It's Thursday" concert series.

The first concert will be held Thursday, June 29, and will include a celebration of veterans and members of the armed forces.

Each business will offer something special to entice customers from 4:30 to 8 p.m. on the days of the concerts. On top of that, residents can fill out forms to win prizes.

The Chamber of Commerce will donate $500 in gift certificates as one of the grand prizes, and the Antioch Coalition of Auto Retailers donated a year-long auto lease as another grand prize.

Each business will put in $100 to participate. Officials also are pulling $5,000 from the business district fund for the promotional campaign.

Downtown, Rt. 83 study planned

ANTIOCH - Officials will hold a public hearing July 13 to gather input on proposed changes to the results outlined in the Downtown and Route 83 Corridor Study.

The study suggests burying power lines along Route 83 near Johnny's Chophouse, adding greenery to many streets, including Skidmore Drive, and more.

A time for the meeting is not known yet. For more information, contact the village hall at (847) 395-1000.

■ Race: Dodge/Save Mart 350
 ■ Where: Infineon Raceway, Sonoma, Calif. (1.99 miles), 110 laps/218.9 miles.
 ■ When: Sunday, June 25
 ■ Last year's winner: Tony Stewart
 ■ Qualifying record: Jeff Gordon, Chevrolet, 94.325 mph, June 24, 2005.
 ■ Race record: Ricky Rudd, Ford, 81.007 mph, June 23, 2002.
 ■ Last week: Kasey Kahne is no longer just a pretty face. His fans, many of whom are female, will attest to the fact that he is still a pretty face, but it's obvious now that he's much more than that. He's a crackerjack of a race driver. Kahne's victory in the rain-shortened 3M Performance 400 was his fourth of the season. In three of them he started from the pole, but the overriding theme hasn't been one of simple dominance, or even brilliance. Kahne's had to use his head where once he used only his foot. "He's definitely grown as a race driver," said Evernham. "He lets people go sometimes when it's early in the race and it doesn't matter. He's gotten to the point where he understands that the end of the race is what counts." It was the shortest race ever run at the two-mile track, just 258 miles of a scheduled 400.

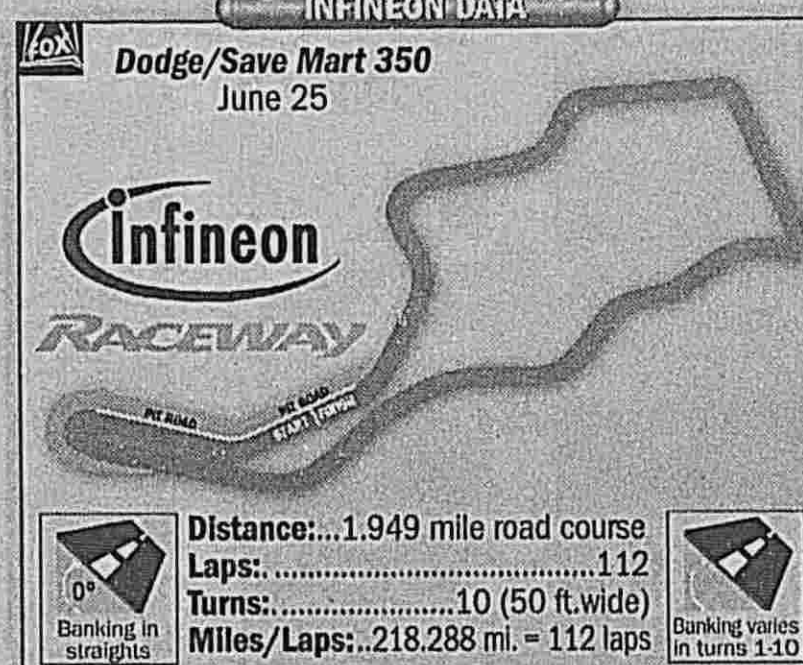

BUSCH SERIES

■ Race: AT&T 250
 ■ Where: The Milwaukee Mile, West Allis, Wis. (1.0 mile), 250 laps/miles.
 ■ When: Saturday, June 24
 ■ Last year's winner: Johnny Sauter
 ■ Qualifying record: Johnny Sauter, Dodge, 122.595 mph, June 25, 2005.
 ■ Race record: Jason Keller, Ford, 103.093 mph, June 29, 2003.
 ■ Last week: David Gilliland, in a Chevrolet, won at Kentucky Speedway in his seventh career start.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK

■ Race: Toyota Tundra Milwaukee 200
 ■ Where: The Milwaukee Mile, West Allis, Wis. (1.0 mile), 250 laps/miles.
 ■ When: Friday, June 23
 ■ Last year's winner: Dennis Setzer
 ■ Qualifying record: Ted Musgrave, Toyota, 121.980 mph, 2004.
 ■ Race record: Brendan Gaughan, Dodge, 154.044 mph, July 26, 2003.
 ■ Last week: Johnny Benson held off Mark Martin and Bobby Labonte during a green-white-checked finish in Michigan.

WHO'S HOT AND WHO'S NOT

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

After a win last Sunday, Kasey Kahne is Nextel Cup's only four-time winner.

Tony Stewart

Jeff Green

Tony Stewart vs. Jeff Green

Nothing complicated here. Green made a mistake, and it ruined Stewart's performance on the 22nd lap of what ended up being a rain-shortened race at Michigan. Green apologized and took the blame. Stewart raged at first but eventually settled down. His shoulder? "I feel good," Stewart said. "I don't feel good about the day, obviously, but physically I feel great."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his take: "Like him or not, Stewart's had some really rotten luck. His luck could've been even more rotten, of course, had he banged up his shoulder again."

Mears to replace Vickers at Hendrick Motorsports next year

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

BROOKLYN, Mich. — The doors of opportunity knocked for Casey Mears, and he said Hendrick Motorsports was "a natural place to go."

Mears will replace Brian Vickers, likely headed to Toyota, next year in the No. 25 Chevrolet fielded by Rick Hendrick's team almost from its very start. The No. 25 has become somewhat of a sore spot since the heyday of the late Tim Richmond.

Calling her conversations "very neutral," Mears said he only inquired about his next ride after Vickers' impending departure made it available.

"There was really no pursuing in either direction," he added. "I talked to Rick (Hendrick) before, back even before I signed with Chip (Ganassi). I think it was clear at that time that I wanted to drive for him some day. ... Our conversations were very neutral, simply because (before Vickers asked for permission to look elsewhere) I didn't think there was an opportunity there."

Mears had some nice things to say about Ganassi, for whom he debuted on Feb. 16, 2003, at

Daytona.

"I wish (Ganassi) the best," said Mears. "I hope they get the best guy out there. ... I had to make the best decision that's going to help my career."

"At some point, they'll get there. As strong-minded as Chip is, that team's going to get there some day."

Getting it down — Jimmie Johnson said his experience has taught him that the best way to win the Nextel Cup championship — something, by the way, he has never done — is to keep it simple.

After 26 races — basically a regular season — the top 10 drivers (or more if within 400 points) are grouped together in a separate competition, aka the Chase for the Nextel Cup. The select group is then bunched within 45 points, differentiated by five points separating each position. Last year the difference between first and 10th place, before the reconfiguration of the standings, was 661 points.

"My outlook is simpler as the years wear on and we get into the Chase," said Johnson. "It's really all about making the Chase. Then, once you're in the Chase, we need 10 good ones. I can have the best 26 races and a 500-point lead and none of it matters. You get to the final 10 and it is what is."

"The pressure that I put myself through and what I focus on is a lot more relaxed this year than my rookie or sophomore year before we went into the Chase."

While Johnson has never won the championship, he has also never finished worse than fifth. This is the third year of the so-called Chase format.

Hardball's breadwinners

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

With the Cubs in the cellar and the Sox brawling at the Cell, Lake County baseball fans have no choice but to bask in the greatness of the varsity season gone by.

Just as their softball counterparts, area pitchers such as Carmel's Matt Diedrich and Warren's Mario Perez were spectacular this season. But despite their best efforts, hitters such as Matt Dittman and Pat Garvey racked up .400-plus batting averages. Thanks to the accomplishments of these 12 players and their teammates, 2006 was a great competitive season for all comers.

Matt Diedrich P - Carmel

• Perfection is a hard thing to come by in baseball, but perfection when it counts, that's downright impossible. Three-year Corsair veteran Matt Diedrich certainly knew how to win games (8-0 record, 0.46 ERA), but he also knew when to turn it on. In the regional championship, Diedrich threw the first no-hitter of his career facing a high-powered Zion-Benton offense that had scored 13 runs in its previous game. Over the course of the season, Diedrich racked up 49 strikeouts with only 14 walks, while his season ERA ties him for No. 26 on the IHSA's all-time

2006 All-Area Baseball Roster

Player	School	Position	Year
Matt Diedrich	Carmel	P	Senior
Matt Dittman	Libertyville	C	Senior
Pat Garvey	Grayslake	C	Junior
Brett Glavey	Wauconda	OF	Senior
Jeff Greco	Carmel	IF/P	Senior
Chandler Kent	Antioch	IF/P	Senior
Keith Lang	Grant	P/IF	Senior
Gerry Martinez	Grayslake	P/IF	Junior
Ryan McManaman	Waukegan	P	Senior
Brian Mendralla	Round Lake	IF	Senior
Mario Perez	Warren	P	Junior
Ian Sanchez	Mundelein	F/P	Senior

list. Such a performance has earned Diedrich a scholarship at Northwestern to pitch for the Wildcats next season.

Matt Dittman C - Libertyville

• Camaraderie on the playing field always is important, and judging by his numbers, Wildcat catcher Matt Dittman rarely met a pitcher he didn't like. Dittman teed off on area hurlers to the tune of a .477 batting average with 39 RBIs off 52 hits. He also knew how to stretch his shots, notching 20 extra-base, good for a spectacular .716 slugging percentage. His performance was good enough for All-North Suburban Conference honors and earned him a chance to play in the Big Ten with the University of

Pat Garvey C - Grayslake Central

• "Clutch" doesn't even begin to describe Ram catcher Pat Garvey's performance this season. Garvey was a huge part of Grayslake's historic sectional championship run, notching five of his nine home runs in the postseason. To place his performance in perspective, prior to the playoffs, Garvey never had a multi-homer game. After the school's first trip to the super sectionals, he had two. Garvey finished with a .470 batting average off 50 hits, good for 42 RBIs. What's the scariest thing for area competitors? He'll be back for next season.

• BASEBALL

Brett Glavey OF - Wauconda

• Speed is important for an outfielder, but it also can help an offense as well. Bulldog Brett Glavey put his fleet feet to work, stealing 11 bags. Of course, you can't steal anything without getting on base, and Glavey could rely on his ample stick for that. As a batter, Glavey finished with a .408 batting average off 38 hits, knocking in 25 runs. Glavey's stats cap off a spectacular three-year run as one of the most consistent Bulldog batters.

Jeff Greco - Carmel IF/P

• Last season, Jeff Greco easily made it onto Lakeland's All-Area roster with a .348 batting average. Well, Greco made a habit out of good batting, improving that mark by more than 100 points for an excellent .462 mark this year. Greco led his team in hits with 61. However, he also could hit for power, drilling nine home runs. Greco's power numbers helped him to 54 RBIs, making him one of the area's best in that category.

Chandler Kent - Antioch IF/P

• The Sequoits always have had a great pitcher in Chandler Kent, but perhaps what makes him even more impressive was his ability to embarass opponents on the mound. Kent scored a .378 batting average off 37 hits to go along with his pitching ability. His torment of opposing hurlers did not end there, as he was one of the area's best baserunners, snatching 28 bases. On the mound, the Antioch veteran moved to a closing role this season and sparkled in that capacity, finishing with a 2-0 record with six saves and 19 Ks.

Keith Lang - Grant P/IF

• Talk about coming out of the woodwork. Despite having to adjust to a new system after transferring, Lang quickly adjusted and was even named as the team's Most Valuable Player after a fine 2006 season. However, "fine" is a bit of an understatement, as he batted .411 off 39 hits. Lang could hit the long ball as well, belting four home runs, helping him to 27 RBIs for the season. On the mound, Lang was Grant's go-to guy, finishing 5-4 with two saves. Lang also had impressive control, walking just 15 batters while striking out 40.

Gerry Martinez - Grayslake Central P/IF

• No baseball team succeeds without a great pitcher. For Grayslake Central, that pitcher was Gerry Martinez. Martinez finished with a 7-3 record in addition to four saves - much improved from his 5-4 mark a year ago. The Rams' big gun could control his pitches with the best, walking 19 while striking out 59. He also was on the area's short list of dangerous pitchers from the plate, finishing with 40 hits and a .330 batting average.

Ryan McManaman - Waukegan P/OF

• Prior to the season, Bulldog hurler Ryan McManaman was the lone all-conference player on the Waukegan roster. In other words, the team was to be built around him and McManaman rose to the occasion. While his 4-5 record and 3.63 ERA don't match some of the other pitchers around the area, those numbers bely his ability as he threw 63 Ks and came up on the wrong end of multiple close games. McManaman lost starts against Bowling Green High School of Ohio and Deerfield, despite giving up just two hits in both contests. Offensively, he was Waukegan's strongest, batting .417 with 13 extra-base hits to go along with 13 stolen bases.

Brian Mendralla - Round Lake IF

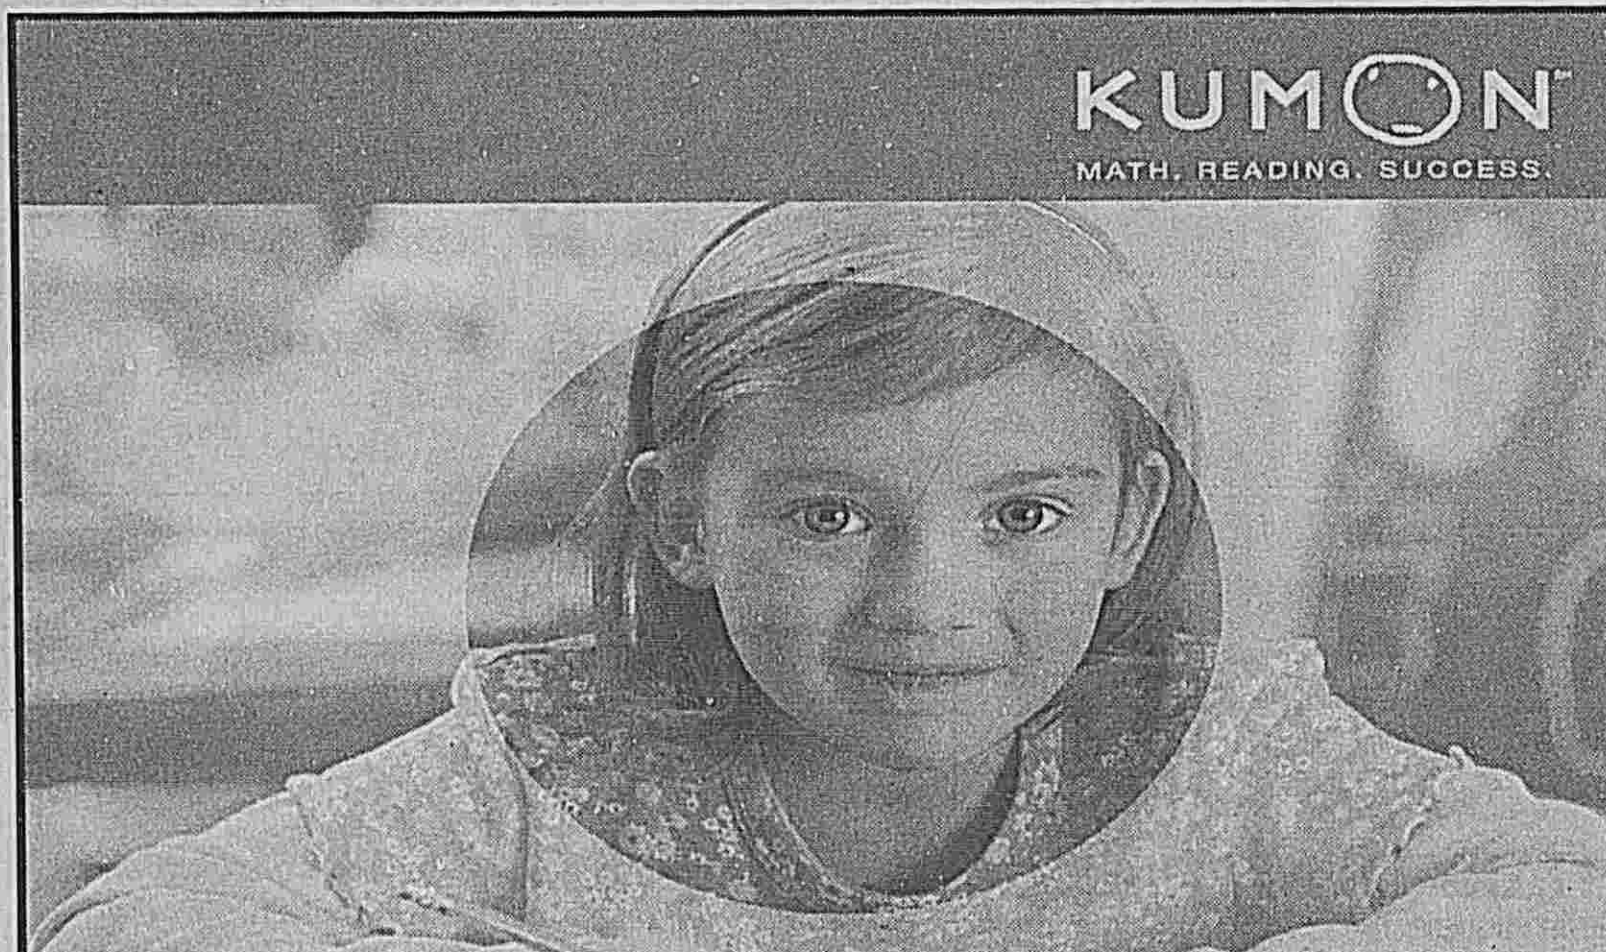

• Round Lake senior Brian Mendralla was the quintessential Panther in everything he did. From his team-first, body-second approach on the basketball floor to his performance on the diamond, Mendralla gave a great example of how sports should be played. As a result, the senior was one of Round Lake's most dangerous bats, leading the team to its first three-game winning streak in years. Mendralla also did his job on the mound, serving as one of Round Lake's closers.

Mario Perez - Warren P

• Last season, we had no choice but to bestow Mario Perez as one of our Rookies of the Year with an unprecedented 70 strikeouts. As difficult as it might have been to follow that performance up, Perez came through with flying colors. The big junior emerged as the Blue Devils' go-to arm, racking up 89 Ks this season. No, your eyes don't deceive you - 89 strikeouts, a mark that led the county. His ability to send batters packing gave him an impressive 6-3 record.

Ian Sanchez - Mundelein IF/P

• Any way you slice it, the Mustangs impressed this season with a regional championship and a 23-15 final record. At the heart of the team stood senior Ian Sanchez. Sanchez was great on the mound, finishing 9-2 on the season with a 1.94 ERA. Control was the name of the game for Sanchez, finishing with a strikeout-to-walk ratio of 56 to 19. Sanchez also was more than proficient at the plate, finishing with 39 hits to give him a .305 batting average.

Jocks, jokes and 'Talladega Nights'

Will "Frank the Tank" Ferrell is back at it again.

I recently saw a preview for Ferrell's next classic, "Talladega Nights: The Ballad of Ricky Bobby." The basic synopsis of the movie follows dimwitted NASCAR driver Ricky Bobby through the tried-and-true formula (cookie cutter plot) of an athlete's fall from grace and return to glory.

Judging by the trailer, the movie is laced with a wicked mix of Ferrell's lunacy and a satirical riff on Tom Cruise's "Days of Thunder." In my mind, these ingredients make this movie look hilarious.

I've been a big Ferrell fan since his days on Saturday Night Live, and this movie has enough childish jokes to make it a first ballot entry into my DVD collection.

However, while I might be counting the days until its release, the very name "Ricky Bobby" hints at jokes at the expense of NASCAR fans and the hillbilly stereotypes that have surrounded the sport for decades. As a racing fan myself, I admit that I have been quick to insert the words "open wheel" in order to distance myself from the stock car racing stereotypes.

But if auto racing is such an easy target, what of the other stereotypes that surround sports in general? In 1989, Vincent Bozzi asked about athletic stereotypes in his "Psychology Today" contribution, "You are what you play—sports stereotypes."

Bozzi cited a study done by Arizona State psychologists where 250 college students were asked to give descriptions of an athlete interested in either golf, bowling, tennis, skiing or motocross.

According to the study, motocross racers and bowlers were considered the least cultured while tennis players and golfers were among the highest cultured. In other words, golf and tennis were considered high class endeavors while bowling and motocross were the sports of yokels.

While I might have chosen different athletics for my own study, the findings seem to fall in line with class stereotypes—your average blue collar worker might go out for a night of bowling and jump on the good ol' four-wheeler for the weekend while golfers and tennis players should just wrap their cardigans around the shoulders and take the Beamer out for a spin.

Other sports also have fallen into this same trap. Basketball has become the sport of the ghettos, hockey is the sport of anyone who finishes sentences with the word "Eh," and soccer, well, that's the sport of everyone else in the world but us.

It's not just the sports themselves that bring about the misconceptions. The word "athlete" has long been substituted with "jock."

Even as a sports reporter, there's even a bit of a stigma attached to the "sports" part of the equation. In my own experience, standing at 6-foot-6 and tipping the scales at 270 pounds, when I mention my occupation as a newspaper reporter, the first question out of many people's mouths is, "So, what do you cover, sports?"

Instantly, I fall into a defensive mode. Yes, I have the appearance of a textbook big dumb jock and what do I write about? Big, dumb, jocks. But if Northwestern-bound Corsair Matt Diedrich or maybe Grayslake's model student Pat Garvey can be used as measuring sticks, "dumb" should never be a prerequisite for "jock."

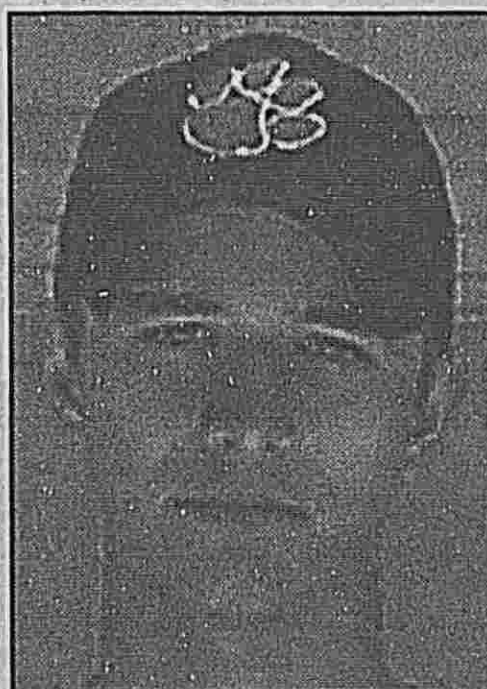

It's a safe bet that we're a long way from having a Will Ferrell flick provide thoughtful commentary on the state of our society and "Talladega Nights" shouldn't be considered anything but what it is: a goofy movie. And stereotypes, hurtful or benign, always should be taken with a grain of salt.

● Athletes of the Week

CHRIS ANDREWS

The varsity season is long over, but the American Legion competition has just begun. Libertyville Bandit Chris Andrews was key in a close 8-7 win over Grayslake Monday night. Andrews was credited with two hits and a stolen base in the big 10th District League victory.

JOSH ALBERS

In the Libertyville Bandits' 8-7 win over Grayslake, LHS standout Josh Albers also provided a much-needed offensive punch, finishing 2-for-3 in the game. Albers' hitting also turned out to be very timely as he notched an important RBI single to score the deciding run against Grayslake.

JOSE GARCIA

It's been a good year for Shawn Chism and the CLC hoops team. After qualifying for the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament, Lancer star Jose Garcia will be playing ball at NAIA's McKendree University while teammates LaChawn Anderson, Chuck Hudson and Antoine Callum also have moved on to four-year schools.

● Outdoor Experience

WHA an outdoorsman's worst enemy

The outdoors community is under constant attack, and now the World Hunting Association might be our biggest threat. Of course, some groups constantly work to take away your right to fish, take away your firearms, and take away your ability to hunt.

PETA has mounted a huge campaign called "Fishing Hurts."

"People don't realize that they [fish] feel pain, just as we do, and lead complex intellectual lives that rival those of dogs and some other mammals," PETA says.

Hmm ... So a creature with a brain that is smaller than the size of a corn kernel can lead a complex intellectual life? Amazing!

These people want to ban fishing and they want to teach our children that fishing is a horrible thing. They have us in their sights and are doggedly pursuing us.

Firearms, hunting and shooting sports always are under attack. Our own governor is opposed to guns and I love those programs that give private citizens the opportunity to turn in guns in exchange for gift certificates or tickets to events. Do you ever think a criminal would hand in a gun? Of course not.

Even though outdoors people are under assault from all corners, I constantly am amazed that we sometimes are our own worst enemies.

A group calling itself the World Hunting Association announced plans to create a worldwide competitive hunting tour with more than $500,000 in prize money offered for the first two tournaments.

Here's the gimmick: Hunters compete by shooting whitetail deer and other game with supposedly non-lethal tranquilizer darts. They will be doing their "hunting" inside the high fences of game farms and shooting at animals born and bred to serve as targets.

The group crowed about the revolutionary new circuit.

"For far too long, hunters have looked forward to the day when we would eventually get our own professional sports league," WHA hunter Brett Hankins said. "Well, that time has arrived, and we are extremely excited."

Unthinking hunters from the lower end of the sport's food chain were excited about their chance to become in the hunting world what Babe Winkelman is to the fishing world.

Here is the bottom line: The WHA is bad for the sport of hunting. Thankfully, many legitimate hunter organizations are banding together with scientific gurus to express their outrage and bring about the quick demise of the WHA.

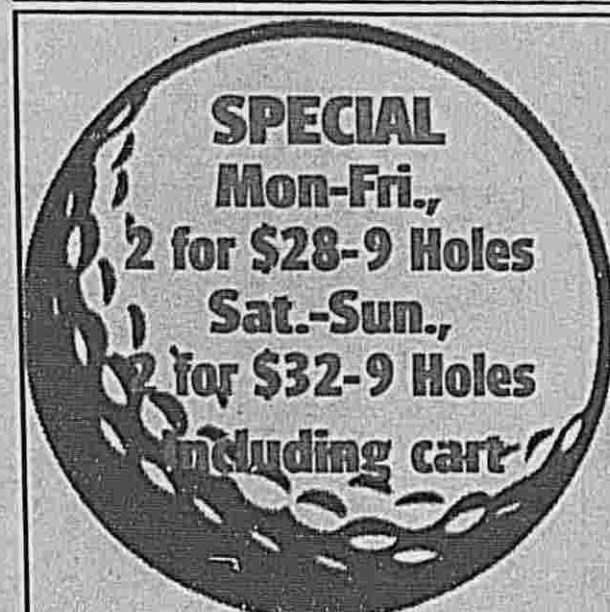

This "catch-and-release" hunting is not that safe for the animals, and environmental agencies using tranquilizer darts find that many animals do not wake up from their chemically-induced naps.

Hunting isn't always about size and trophies. Hunting is about the hunt. Hunting is exalted because of the outdoors experience that we share. Hunting is about communing with nature, camaraderie with fellow outdoorsmen and the lore of the sport.

Warm weather brings sunshine, green grass, blooming flowers and time to enjoy the outdoors. However, during summer, many allergy and asthma sufferers minimize outdoor activity and retreat indoors in search of cleaner air. According to the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, approximately 75 percent of all allergy sufferers have indoor or outdoor allergies as their primary allergy.

Indoor air quality is one of the top five environmental issues. It can be anywhere from two to 10 times worse than outdoor air pollution, according to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). With Americans spending 90 percent of their time indoors, virtually everyone is affected by poor indoor air quality, especially asthmatics and others who are particularly sensitive to allergens and contaminants in the air.

"The indoor air environment in some homes may be detrimental to the health of their occupants," says Penny Gotteir Fena, national director from American Lung Association Health House program. "With an estimated 36 million Americans suffering from allergies or asthma, air pollution in our homes is a real concern."

There are many sources of indoor air pollution in a home. Some of the most common pollutants include secondhand smoke, household pets and combustion byproducts resulting from indoor fuel-burning appliances, such as gas stoves, gas or oil furnaces and non-vented fireplaces.

The EPA recommends three basic strategies to improve indoor air quality: source control, ventilation improvements and air cleaners. Source control is a way to eliminate individual sources of pollution or reduce their emissions. Ventilation improvements involve increasing the amount of outdoor air coming in. Air cleaners collect pollutants from indoor air.

One example of an effective air cleaner is a whole-house filtration system, which can trap and filter up to 98 percent of pollutants that pass through heating and cooling systems, including dust, smoke, smog, mold and dander.

The American Lung Association Health House program and Honeywell recommend the following steps to reduce exposure to home pollutants and improve indoor air:

- Do not smoke inside your home, or allow others to do so.
- Keep the humidity levels in your home at 50 percent or below to inhibit the growth of dust mites.
- Test your home for radon, a colorless, odorless gas that is the second leading cause of lung cancer.
- Keep dust to a minimum by dusting and mopping regularly.
- If someone in your home has pet allergies, keep pets outdoors.
- When remodeling or redecorating, avoid composite materials that can be found in cabinets and countertops. Select paints and other furnishings that are low VOC emitters.
- Consider a whole-house filtration system to remove airborne irritants.

Pet OF THE WEEK

SYDNEY

Looking at spending the rest of his life in his home is what Sydney was looking for, not finding himself back at Save-A-Pet. He didn't foresee that anything would be different than past years. Feeling insecure and hoping that this is all a bad dream, Sydney spends most of his time on the porch, looking out of the window, waiting for an improbable sighting of someone familiar. This front-paw declawed gent is very sweet and enjoys little scratches around his face and along his spine, guaranteed to elicit a soft purr and an elevator butt.

Fox Lake IL0970200 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report For the period of January 1 to December 31, 2005

This report is intended to provide you with important information about your drinking water and the efforts made by the Fox Lake water system to provide safe drinking water. The source of drinking water used by Fox Lake is ground.

For more information regarding this report, contact:

ABOUT OUR WATER SYSTEM

In 1928 the Village of Fox Lake Public Water System was put into service. The system supplied potable water to our residents from RT.12 & Grand Ave. to Washington St. & Rollins Rd. The system also supplied potable water north up Forest Ave. to Lakeview Ave. & Howard Ave. The distribution system was comprised of a 60,000-gallon water tower floating over 10" 8" & 6" cast iron water mains. Well #1, drilled in 1928, supplied all the Village's treated water until 1941.

Well #2, put into service in 1941. Iron removal filters were required to reduce the iron concentration to an acceptable limit.

In 1976 a new 500,000-gallon water tower and new Well #3 was put into service. Well #3 along with Wells #1&2 supplied all the Village's potable water until 1988.

Well #4 drilled in 1987 was put into service in 1988. Not unlike Well #2 Iron Removal Filters were required to reduce the treated waters iron concentration to an acceptable limit.

In 1999 a 250,000-gallon water tower was constructed to replace the original 60,000-gallon tower.

In the spring of 2004 new well #5 was put into service. Well #5, not unlike Well #2 & #4, required Iron Removal Filters in order to reduce the treated water's iron concentration to an acceptable limit.

Today our Water System supplies 500,000 to 1,000,000 gallons of potable water per day for over 5,000 Village residents, and our water system now reaches as far south as Rt. 134 & Rt. 12. Wells #1,2,4&5 supply all of the Village's treated water.

Water from Well #1 is pumped and blended with filtered water from Well #2. Polyphosphates are added for corrosion control, followed by the addition of fluorine to help control tooth decay, chlorine is then added for disinfection.

Water from Well #4 is pumped and filtered for iron, polyphosphates are added for corrosion control, followed by the addition of fluorine to help control tooth decay. Chlorine is then added, for disinfection. Water from Well #5 is pumped and filtered for iron, polyphosphates are added for corrosion control, followed by the addition of fluorine to help control tooth decay. Chlorine is then added for disinfection.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and groundwater wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife. Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming. Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff and residential uses. Radioactive contaminants, which are naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

In order to ensure that your water is safe to drink, the I.E.P.A. prescribes regulations limiting the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by Public Water Systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water with their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

2005 Regulated Contaminants Detected

Lead and Copper
Date Sampled: 9/24/2005

Definitions:

Action Level (AL): The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Action Level Goal (ALG): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. ALG's allow for a margin of safety.

Lead MCLG	Lead Action Level (AL)	Lead 90th Percentile	# Sites Over Lead AL	Copper MCLG	Copper Action Level (AL)	Copper 90th Percentile	# Sites Over Copper AL	Likely Source of Contamination
0	15 ppb	4.5 ppb	0	1.3 ppm	1.3 ppm	0.51 ppm	1	Emission of household plumbing systems; Erosion of natural deposits

Water Quality Test Results

Definitions: The following tables contain scientific terms and measures, some of which may require explanation. Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL): The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCL's are set as close to the Maximum Contaminant Level Goal as feasible using the best available treatment technology. Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLG's allow for a margin of safety. mg/L: milligrams per liter or parts per million - or one ounce in 7.5 gallons of water. µg/L: micrograms per liter or parts per billion - or one ounce in 7,500,000 gallons of water. n.a.: not applicable. Avg.: Regulatory compliance with some MCL's are based on running annual average of monthly samples. Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL): The highest level of disinfectant allowed in drinking water. Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG): The level of disinfectant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLG's allow for a margin of safety.

2005 Violation Summary Table

Violation summary

No drinking water quality violations were recorded for 2005

Source Water Assessment Summary

The Village of Fox Lake (Facility Number 0970200) utilizes three active public water supply wells. Well #1 (Illinois EPA #20005), well #2 (Illinois EPA #20006), and well #4 (Illinois EPA #00220) distribute 599,000 gallons per day on average to an estimated population of 3,789 at 1,375 service connections. Based on information obtained in a Well Site Survey published in 1992 by the Illinois EPA, twenty-six potential sources or possible problem sites were identified within the survey area of Fox Lake's wells. Furthermore, information provided by the Leaking Underground Storage Tank and Remedial Project Management Sections of the Illinois EPA indicated several additional sites with ongoing remediations, which may be of concern.

The Illinois EPA has determined that Fox Lake's wells #1 and #2 source water is not susceptible to contamination. However, the source water obtained from Well #4 is susceptible to contamination. This determination is based on a number of criteria including: monitoring conducted at the wells; monitoring conducted at the entry point to the distribution system; and the available hydrogeologic data on the wells. The Illinois Environmental Protection Act provides minimum protection zone of 400 feet for Fox Lake well #4 and 200 feet for well #1 and #2. These minimum protection zones are regulated by the Illinois EPA.

To further minimize the risk to the groundwater supply, the Illinois EPA recommends that six additional activities be assessed.

First, the village should obtain aquifer property data and groundwater flow direction information so the recharge area for the village's Well #4 can be mapped. This information can be obtained by completing pump tests on the CWS well and completing mass water level measurements on wells finished in the aquifer utilized by Well #4.

Upon completing this effort, the village may wish to enact a "maximum setback zone" ordinance(s) to further protect their water supply. These ordinances are authorized by the Illinois Environmental Protection Act and allow county and municipal officials the opportunity to provide additional protection up to a fixed distance, normally 1,000 feet, from their well.

Third, the village should explore the options of either properly abandoning inactive Well #3 or retrofitting it for use as a source of water supply. Inactive wells that are not properly abandoned can act as direct conduits for surficial contaminants into the aquifer and are considered "potential routes of groundwater contamination" under the Environmental Protection Act.

Fourth, the water supply staff may wish to revisit their contingency planning documents. Contingency planning documents are a primary means to ensure that, through emergency preparedness, a village will minimize their risk of being without safe and adequate water.

Fifth, the water supply staff is encouraged to review their cross connection control program to ensure that it remains current and viable. Cross connections to either the water treatment plant (for example, at bulk water loading stations) or in the distribution system may negate all source water protection initiatives provided by the village.

Finally, the Illinois EPA recommends that the village investigate additional source water protection management options to address land use activities within the recharge area of Well #4. Specifically, these management options must include potential impacts from point and nonpoint sources of groundwater contamination.

Village Board Meetings

The Village Board meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 7:00 pm at the Village Hall located at 66 Thillen Drive.

The Sewer & Water Committee meet on the forth Tuesday of each month at the Village Hall. Please feel free to attend these meetings.

A Few Words From The Sewer & Water Dept.

The Sewer & Water Dept. flush the fire hydrants twice a year, once in the spring and again in the fall. This flushing is required to insure our fire hydrants are working properly and to clean the water mains of sediments that cause red water and odor problems. Your Patients is greatly appreciated during this procedure.

If you have a question about your Sewer & Water Bill please call our office at 847-587-2151 or E-mail munoz@foxlake.org

All calls other than Billing are accepted at

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the State of Illinois has enacted "An Act regulating wages of laborers, mechanics and other workers employed in any public works by the state, county, city or any public body or any political subdivision or by any one under contract for public works," approved June 26, 1941, codified as amended, 820 ILCS 130/1 et seq. (1993), formerly Ill. Rev. Stat., Ch. 48, Par. 39s-1 et. seq. and

WHEREAS, the aforesaid act requires that Lincolnshire-Prairie View School District 103, Lincolnshire, Illinois, investigate and ascertain the prevailing rate of wages as defined in said Act for laborers, mechanics and other workers in the locality of said District employed in performing construction of public works, for said District.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF DISTRICT NO 103:

SECTION 1: To the extent and as required by "An Act regulating wages of laborers, mechanics and other workers employed in any public works by the state, county, city or any public body or any political subdivision or by any one under contract for public works," approved June 26, 1941, as amended, the general prevailing rate of wages in this locality for laborers, mechanics and other workers engaged in the construction of public works coming under the jurisdiction of this District is hereby ascertained to be the same as the prevailing rate of wages for construction work in the Lake County area as determined by the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois as of June 2006, a copy of that determination being attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. As required by said Act, any and all revisions of the prevailing rate of wages by the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois shall supersede the Department's June determination and apply to any and all public works construction undertaken by the District. The definition of any terms appearing in this Resolution which are also used in aforesaid Act shall be the same as in said Act.

SECTION 2: Nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply said general prevailing rate of wages as herein ascertained to any work or employment except public works construction of this District to the extent required by the aforesaid Act.

SECTION 3: The District shall publicly post or keep available for inspection by any interested party in the main office of the District this determination or any revisions of such prevailing rate of wage. A copy of this determination or of the current revised determination of prevailing rate of wages then in effect shall be attached to all contract specifications.

SECTION 4: The Assistant Superintendent for Business shall mail a copy of this determination to any employer, and to any association of employers and to any person or association of employees who have filed their names and addresses, requesting copies of any determination stating the particular rates and the particular class of workers whose wages will be affected by such rates.

SECTION 5: The Assistant Superintendent for Business shall promptly file a certified copy of this Resolution with both the Secretary of State Index Division and the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois.

SECTION 6: The Assistant Superintendent for Business shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the area a copy of this Resolution, and such publication shall constitute notice that the determination is effective and that this is the determination of this public body.

PASSED THIS 12th day of June, 2006.

APPROVED:

/s/ Angela Berka

Secretary of the Board of Education

STATE OF ILLINOIS)

COUNTY OF LAKE)

I, Angela Berka, do hereby certify that I am the duly qualified and acting Secretary of the Board of Education of School District Number 103, Lake County, Illinois, and as such officer I am the keeper of the records and files of the Board of Education of said District.

I do further certify that the attached Resolution entitled "Resolution of the Lincolnshire-Prairie View School District 103, Lake County, Illinois ascertaining the Prevailing Rate of Wages for Laborers, Workers and Mechanics Employed on Public Works of said School District" is a true and accurate statement of the record of said Board as it appears in the official minutes of said Board under the date of June 12, 2006.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto affixed my official signature at Lincolnshire, Illinois this 12th day of June, 2006.

ABOUT OUR WATER SYSTEM

In 1972 the Leisure Technologies completed construction on the Tall Oaks Public Water Supply, now known as the Fox Lake Water System #2. This new water system supplied potable water to the Leisure Village and Vacation Village Home Owners Associations.

The water treatment facility, located on Grass Lake Road one half mile east of State Park Road, consisted of a 500,000 gallon ground reservoir, one shallow well, and three high pressure booster pumps. The distribution system consisting of 10", 8" and 6" water main, serviced all of the Leisure Village and Vacation Village area.

Well #1 was drilled to a depth of 146 feet in 1972 and produced 1500 gallons per minute. At present this well produces 350 gpm and is treated with sodium hypochlorite for disinfection, and hydrofluosilicic acid to help prevent tooth decay. The treated water from well #1 is then pumped into the ground reservoir. In the fall of 1976 well #2 was drilled to a depth of 133 feet and produced 730 gallons per minute.

With the high iron content in both Wells 1&2 an iron removal filtration system was installed in 1989 to lower the iron content in your drinking water to an expectable limit.

At present this well produces 650 gpm. This water is filtered of iron then treated with gas chlorine for disinfection, and hydrofluosilicic acid to help prevent tooth decay. The treated water is then pumped to the reservoir for storage before entering the distribution system.

The Tall Oaks Water System now supplies potable water to not only Leisure Village and Vacation Village, but also to Hickory Cove, East and West Dunns Lake Subdivisions, Woodland Green, Reva Bay, and Brightwater Subdivisions. The Tall Oaks Public Water System is now treating approximately 200,000 gallons of water per day in the cool months of the year, and approximately 400,000 gallons per day during the warm months of the year.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and groundwater wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife. Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming. Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff and residential uses. Radioactive contaminants, which are naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

In order to ensure that your water is safe to drink, the I.E.P.A. prescribes regulations limiting the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by Public Water Systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water with their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

2005 Regulated Contaminants Detected

Definitions:

Action Level (AL): The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Action Level Goal (ALG): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. ALGs allow for a margin of safety.

Definitions: The following table contains scientific terms and measures, some of which may require explanation. Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL): The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the Maximum Contaminant Level Goal as feasible using the best available treatment technology. Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLG's allow for a margin of safety. mg/L: milligrams per liter or parts per million - or one ounce in 7.535 gallons of water. µg/L: micrograms per liter or parts per billion - or one ounce in 7,530,000 gallons of water. not applicable. Avg. Regulatory compliance with some MCLs are based on annual average of monthly samples. Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL): The highest level of disinfectant allowed in drinking water. Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG): The level of disinfectant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLG's allow for a margin of safety.

Source Water Assessment Summary

The Fox Lake Plant 2 (Facility Number 0975780) utilizes two active public water supply wells. Well #1 (Illinois EPA #20010) and well #2 (Illinois EPA #20011) distributes 148,000 gallons per day on average to an estimated population of 2235 at 894 service connections. Based on information obtained in a Well Site Survey published in 1992 by the Illinois EPA, no potential sources or possible problem sites were identified within the survey area of Fox Lake Plant 2 wells. However, information provided by the Leaking Underground Storage Tank and Remedial Project Management Sections of the Illinois EPA indicated several additional sites with ongoing remediations, which may be of concern.

The Illinois EPA has determined that the source water obtained from Fox Lake Plant 2 Wells #1 and #2 is susceptible to contamination. This determination is based on a number of criteria including: monitoring conducted at the wells; monitoring conducted at the entry point to the distribution system; and the available hydrogeologic data on the wells. The Illinois Environmental Protection Act provides a minimum protection zone of 400 feet for Fox Lake Plant 2 Wells #1 and #2. Minimum protection zones are regulated by the Illinois EPA.

To further minimize the risk to the groundwater supply, the Illinois EPA recommends that five additional activities be assessed.

First, the subdivision should obtain aquifer property data and groundwater flow direction information so the recharge area for the subdivision Wells #1 and #2 can be mapped. This information can be obtained by completing pump tests on the CWS wells and completing mass water level measurements on wells finished in the aquifer utilized by Wells #1 and #2.

Upon completing this effort, the subdivision may wish to petition county and local officials to enact a "maximum setback zone" ordinance(s) to further protect their water supply. These ordinances are authorized by the Illinois Environmental Protection Act and allow county and municipal officials the opportunity to provide additional protection up to a fixed distance, normally 1,000 feet, from their wells.

Third, the water supply staff may wish to revisit their contingency planning documents. Contingency planning documents are a primary means to ensure that, through emergency preparedness, a water corporation will minimize their risk of being without safe and adequate water.

Fourth, the water supply staff is encouraged to review their cross connection control program to ensure that it remains current and viable. Cross connections to either the water treatment plant (for example, at bulk water loading stations) or in the distribution system may negate all source water protection initiatives provided by the water corporation.

Finally, the Illinois EPA recommends that the subdivision investigate additional source water protection management options to address land use activities within the recharge areas of Wells #1 and #2. Specifically, these management options must include potential impacts from point and nonpoint sources of groundwater contamination.

Village Board Meetings

The Village Board meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 7:00 pm at the Village Hall located at 66 Thillen Drive.

The Sewer & Water Committee meet on the fourth Tuesday of each month at the Village Hall. Please feel free to attend these meetings.

A Few Words From The Sewer & Water Dept.

The Sewer & Water Department flush the fire hydrants twice a year, once in the spring and again in the fall. This flushing is required to insure our fire hydrants are working properly and to clean the water mains of sediments that cause red water and odor problems. Your Patients is greatly appreciated during this procedure.

If you have a question about your Sewer & Water Bill please call our office at 847-587-5121 or e-mail muno@foxlake.org

All calls other than Billing are accepted at 847-587-6960 or 847-587-4671 or E-mail peter-sok@foxlake.org

Village of Round Lake Park 2006 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report

Dear Water Customer,

This is your annual water quality report for the period of January 1 through December 31, 2005. Each year the Village issues this report to provide you information about the quality of our drinking water, the source of our water, how it is treated, and what it contains. These reports are issued in compliance with the requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act. For specific information about our water's quality or any other water related question, contact George Johnson 847-546-2790 or Ed Glatfelter at CLCJAWA, 847-295-7788. Or, visit our web page at www.roundlakepark.us or the CLCJAWA web page at www.clcjawa.com. Fide informae contine informae n may importante sobre el agua que usted bebe. Traduzcalo a habile con alguien que lo entienda bien.

Where does our water come from?

Our Village purchases water from the Central Lake County Joint Action Water Agency (CLCJAWA). CLCJAWA is an intergovernmental cooperative, formed by the communities it serves: Grayslake, Gurnee, Lake Bluff, Libertyville, Mundelein, Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Heights, Round Lake Park, and Lake County representing the unincorporated areas of Knollwood, Roundout, Wildwood and Vernon Hills.

How is our water purified?

Our water is pumped from Lake Michigan and treated at CLCJAWA's Paul M. Neal Water Treatment Facility in the Village of Lake Bluff. The enhanced water purification process used by CLCJAWA is unique. First, the water is treated with ozone to kill organisms and break down contaminants. Ozone is produced on-site from air, bubbled into the water, and then converted back into oxygen. The water is then mixed with coagulant that sweeps sediment and other material out of the water. Once clarified, the water is further refined as it passes through filters containing activated carbon. Next, the water is treated with ultraviolet light to inactivate any remaining organisms. Finally, the purified water is treated with chlorine to protect it as it travels through the water main; fluoride for dental health, and a small amount of an often used food additive called phosphate. Phosphate protects the water from the metals found in your home's plumbing system.

CLCJAWA is an Excellence in Water Treatment award winning facility. CLCJAWA was the third facility in the nation to achieve this distinction presented by the Partnership for Safe Water. This voluntary water quality related program, sponsored in part by the United States Environmental Protection Agency, holds its awardees to higher standards than required by current drinking water regulations.

How is the water delivered to my tap?

FOR EXAMPLE: The Village is in the process of completing a multiyear water system improvement plan. These improvements are a continuation of the 15 year comprehensive water main replacement program that was initiated in 1990. These improvements further assure the continued, uninterrupted conveyance of quality drinking water to your tap.

How is our drinking water regulated?

To ensure tap water safety, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) prescribes limits on the amount of certain contaminants in our drinking water. Water quality may be judged by comparing our water to USEPA benchmarks for water quality. One such benchmark is the Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG). The MCLG is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below, which there is no known or expected risk to health. This goal allows for a margin of safety. Another benchmark is the Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL). An MCL is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. An MCL is set as close to an MCLG as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

How is our water's quality assured?

Our tap water quality is consistently monitored by the Village, by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA), in the CLCJAWA Water Quality Lab, and by several other independent labs. This aggressive water quality assurance program is thorough; bacteriological tests are conducted six times more often than required, water clarity is monitored every 10 seconds, and our water is checked for hundreds of non regulated contaminants.

What regulated compounds are found in our drinking water?

The table below lists all of the regulated compounds detected in our water. The table lists the compound detected, the highest level found, the range of detection, the ideal goal for public health (MCLG), the highest level allowed by regulation (MCL), and other information. If the two numbers in the range of detection column are identical, there was only one sample analyzed during the year. Italicized compounds were measured by CLCJAWA, all other compounds were measured by the Village.

Abbreviation	Definition
AL	Action Level is the level that triggers special treatment or other required actions by a water supply.
MCL	Maximum Contaminant Level is the highest level allowed by EPA in drinking water.
MCLG	Maximum Contaminant Level Goal is the level of a contaminant below, which there is no known or expected health risk.
NTU	Nephelometric Turbidity Unit is a measure of water's cloudiness.
pCi/l	pico Curies per liter. EPA considers 50 pCi/l to be a level of concern for beta particles.
ppb	Parts per billion is also referred to as micrograms per liter (µg/L). Equivalent to one ounce in 7,380,000 gallons of water.
ppm	Parts per million is also referred to as milligrams per liter (mg/L). Equivalent to one ounce in 7,380 gallons of water.
TT	Treatment Technique refers to a required process intended to reduce contaminant level drinking water.

Lead and Copper:

Some homes with old lead service lines, lead plumbing, or copper plumbing with lead solder, may have lead and copper in their water. To minimize this contamination, the Illinois EPA requires phosphate addition to our water at a concentration of 0.3 ppm orthophosphate. This commonly used food ingredient coats the inside of your plumbing with a thin film. The film reduces the level of lead and copper that may enter your water.

Sodium:

There is no state or federal MCL for sodium. Monitoring is required to provide information to consumers in case you are concerned about sodium intake for dietary reasons. If the sodium level in our water was greater than 20 ppm, and you were on a sodium-restricted diet, you would be advised to consult a physician.

Turbidity:

Turbidity is a measure of water cloudiness. Treatment facilities monitor turbidity because it is a good indicator of water quality and the effectiveness of their filtration and disinfection systems. At CLCJAWA, turbidity is checked every ten seconds by automatic monitoring equipment and every four hours, by hand, in the laboratory.

Was CLCJAWA or the Village cited with any drinking water violations this year?

No.

Where do water contaminants come from?

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the US Environmental Protection Agency's (USEPA) Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

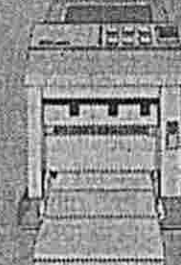

Both tap and bottled water come from rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring materials and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animal or human activity. Contaminants that may be present in untreated water include:

- Microbial contaminants such as viruses and bacteria can be naturally occurring or may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, and livestock operations.
- Inorganic contaminants such as salts and metals can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides come from sources such as agricultural and residential storm water runoff.
- Organic chemical contaminants including synthetic and volatile organic compounds are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production but can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff and septic systems.

It Pays To Advertise In The Classified!

The recent spike in gasoline prices is causing a shift in car-buying habits and increased interest in alternate fuels. But there are plenty of every-day, basic strategies consumers can employ to ease the burden of higher gasoline prices. The following advice is from the pros at the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), who note that these conservation tips will not only save gasoline, they'll help extend the life of your vehicle and its components.

- Monitor your tires. Under inflated tires or poorly aligned wheels waste fuel by forcing the engine to work harder, wasting about 3 percent of your fuel economy. Out-of-line wheels, as evidenced by uneven tread wear, should be aligned by a professional.

- Observe speed limits. Speeding decreases your miles per gallon. As a rule of thumb, mileage begins to decline sharply above 60 mph or so. Fuel savings can range from five percent to 33 percent.

- Drive gently. Sudden accelerations guzzle gas. Anticipate traffic patterns ahead and adjust your speed gradually. (You'll help your brakes and suspension system last longer, too.)

- Use cruise control and the overdrive gear.

• Remove excess weight. Store only essentials in the trunk. Less weight means better mileage. How much? One to two percent per hundred pounds of excess weight. After family vacations, make sure you remove all unnecessary items including that rooftop cargo carrier, which may not weigh a great deal empty but increases air drag.

- Use the recommended grade of engine oil to save another percent or two. Consult your owner's manual or speak with your automotive technician.

- A clogged air filter can cause your vehicle to use up to 10 percent more gasoline.

- Follow the service schedules listed in your owner's manual. Replace filters and fluids as recommended; have engine performance problems (rough idling, poor acceleration, etc.) corrected at a repair facility. Given today's high-tech engines, it's wise to have this type of work done by auto technicians who are ASE certified in engine performance.

- Keep your engine operating at its peak efficiency. A faulty oxygen sensor can decrease your mpg by up to 40 percent. Less serious problems may cost you four percent. The lesson is clear: a well-maintained engine will help you maximize the gas mileage for your specific make and model.

- Avoid excessive engine idling. Shut off your vehicle while waiting for friends and family.

- Consolidate your daily trips and errands.

Routine maintenance and less aggressive driving will go a long way to reducing the pain you feel at the pump.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) was founded in 1972 as a non-profit, independent organization dedicated to improving Sensible driving and keeping your vehicle well maintained will help you get better gas mileage, say the pros at the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE).

the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive technicians. ASE-certified technicians wear blue and white ASE shoulder insignia and carry credentials listing their exact area(s) of certification. Their employers often display the blue and white ASE sign. Visit www.ase.com for more information.

Summerfest heats up Milwaukee

By REBECCA KLUGIEWICZ
rklugiewicz@nwnewsgroup.com

Tens of thousands of people will gather over 11 days at the world's largest music festival, which begins next week.

The 39th Annual Summerfest, a music festival, will begin on June 29 and run through July 9 in Milwaukee. Hundreds of popular musicians, with styles ranging from rock to country to gospel to alternative and everything in between, will perform on 11 stages.

This year's headliners include Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, Pearl Jam, Nine Inch Nails, Common, Keane, Mary J. Blige and Kenny Chesney.

The wide variety of music allows nearly everyone the chance to find a musician they like. Lindsay Evans, a marketing and public relations intern with Summerfest, said that's what makes the festival unique.

"It's great because so many popular acts come together for these 11 days, and people of any background can come together and find music that they like," Evans said.

An Emerging Artist Series at the U.S. Cellular Connection Stage will showcase up-and-coming acts each day from 4 to 7 p.m. Audience members can vote for their favorite performers, who will win prizes each night. The bands also will be available to sign autographs and meet fans.

Summerfest is about more than music, though. Comedian Lewis Black will be on hand to make audiences laugh.

There also are plenty of activities for families.

"You can come here during the day and eat great food and watch bike demonstrations and hang out with your kids," Evans said. "It is a place where you can bring your family."

A Children's Theater & PlayZone will offer fun activities for kids, including animal shows, magic shows, yo-yo shows, juggling demonstrations, dance shows and more.

Sports fans also will love Summerfest. They can see weightlifting challenges, performances by the Milwaukee Bucks, demonstrations by sports teams from Marquette University, BMX bike demonstrations and more.

The festival also will feature fireworks, a cool-down lounge, the Skyglider, bingo, a guitar exhibit and golf contests, as well as other activities.

Tickets for Summerfest are $8 for general admission before 4 p.m. and $15 after 4 p.m. Children and seniors can enjoy the fun for $3. Children age 2 and under are free. Tickets are available at the gate, or through Ticketmaster.

Summerfest is located at the Henry W. Maier Festival Park,

Discover the secrets of dressing in style

By GENEVA WHITE

gwhite@nwnewsgroup.com

A-line skirts.
Boot-cut pants.
Empire waistlines.

And heels. For goodness sake, don't forget the heels.

Being just under or just over 5 feet tall doesn't have to mean being out of fashion. Plenty of styles can flatter the shorter woman.

The most important thing to remember when dressing petite is to wear things that make the body seem longer, Laura McDowell, fashion expert for TJ Maxx, said.

"If you want to elongate the body, the A-line skirt does the trick," McDowell said. "The same with the boot-cut pant." While A-lines and boot cuts elongate, cropped pants and patterns cut the body in half, she said, and they should be avoided.

Wearing one solid color or similar colors is another way to make a person seem taller, McDowell said.

"For shorter women, you may want to go for capris or fuller pants," McDowell said. "You want to make sure you don't appear cut off."

When wearing skirts, it is crucial to throw out those old Catholic school rules and make sure it comes just above the knee. Longer skirts tend to give that "cut-off" appearance, McDowell said.

With prom and wedding season under way, some smaller women might be tempted to wear the drop-waist skirt, which helps give the appearance of being thinner.

While that might be a welcome feature for the average sized-woman, it will just make a petite gal shorter, Kimberly Frank, owner of Kimberly's Bridal Boutique in Lakemoor and Jani's Bridal Affair in Crystal Lake, said.

About 80 percent of the more than 1,000 customers Frank works with each year are petites - something she said the bridal industry deems as being shorter than 5 feet 10 inches tall.

Shorter women who want their dresses to look fabulous should ditch the drop-waist skirt for an empire waistline, which comes just below the bust line.

"It actually makes you look taller," Frank said. "Then the skirt should go into that A-line."

If the clothing itself doesn't give you a few inches, high heels always are an option, and they are trendy this spring, McDowell said.

"There's a lot of great heels out there, like the wedge and the platform," McDowell said. "It's a personal choice. Some people want to look taller."

For 5-foot-3-inch Frank, heels are an any-outfit fashion choice.

"Heels are very feminine and should be worn, even with jeans," Frank said. "I absolutely am a heel fan."

While there are plenty of stores that cater to petite women, such as Ann Taylor and Petite Sophisticate, Geneva clothing buyer Denise Harshbarger said the fashion industry has gotten away in recent years from making size-specific clothing.

Outfits for particular sizes, from the petite to the plus-size, generally are found in the higher-end stores, Harshbarger, who buys for the Meeting Place, Marion Court and She She, which are among retailers in Geneva's Fashion Walk on Third, said.

Petite pants, for example, often are found among general sizes, Harshbarger said, but marked as "short."

New projects on horizon at Lake County forest preserve

As summer gets underway, residents of Lake County will have the chance to enjoy the new trails and facilities offered by the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

From playgrounds to trails to nature exhibits, below are some highlights of new and upcoming offerings at various Lake County Forest Preserves.

Accessible play area

The new "Children's Grove" play area at Independence Grove, near Libertyville, was designed with children of varying abilities in mind.

The sensory-rich environment features state-of-the-art handicapped-adaptable play equipment and wide, paved pathways to make access comfortable for all visitors.

The playground is scheduled to open for use in late summer.

For more information, visit www.LCFPD.org/independence-grove.

Welcome center

A new welcome center at Ryerson Woods, near Deerfield, is slated to open in July.

The facility was planned as a model of green architecture, and the building's design takes advantage of the latest advances in environmentally-friendly construction.

Features include water-efficient landscaping that makes use of recycled rainwater, a building design using natural light, geothermal technology for heating and cooling and a permeable asphalt parking lot.

The building will provide a home for the environmental education staff of the Lake County Forest Preserves.

For more information, visit www.LCFPD.org/ryersonwoods.

Fort Sheridan exhibits

New trail-side exhibits at Fort Sheridan Forest Preserve near Highland Park will provide a perspective on the site's natural and cultural history.

The exhibits are slated to open by late June.

Millennium Trail

A trailhead at Singing Hills Forest preserve is now open.

Lake County Forest Preserves are purchasing lands that will help form the route for the trail, as it heads north and east from Singing Hills through Round Lake area communities to Rollins Savanna Forest Preserve near Grayslake.

From there, the trail is slated to head north through Fourth Lake Forest Preserve and Bonner Heritage Farm to McDonald Woods Forest Preserve near Lindenhurst.

It will then run east and connect with the northern section of the Des Plaines River Trail near Wadsworth.

For more information, visit www.LCFPD.org/millenniumtrail.

To learn more about other projects and events through the Lake County Forest Preserve District, visit their Web site at www.LCFPD.org, and enjoy summer with the forest preserve.

Jack Black plays Ignacio, nicknamed Nacho, in the Paramount/Nickelodeon film "Nacho Libre."

By PAM & GEORGE SINGLETON

Jack Black Ignacio/Nacho
Hector Jimenez Esquelito

Directed by Jared Hess
Comedy
Paramount/Nickelodeon
Rated PG
Running time: 100 minutes

Ignacio (Jack Black) was abandoned as a boy and left at a monastery orphanage in Oaxaca, Mexico.

Now he's the cook for the priests and the orphans who live there, serving up a daily heap of slop that passes for a meal.

It's topped off with chips from a restaurant that are left in a plastic bag in an alley each evening. Oh, yum. That's how he got his nickname, Nacho.

A beautiful new nun, Sister Encarnacion, has come to teach the boys, and Nacho is eager to invite her to his room to share toast in the evening. That is if he can keep his nemesis, one of the priests, away from her.

The monastery is tapped out financially, and Nacho sees a way to make money to save the kids and make time with Encarnacion. He will become a "Luchadore" and wrestle for prize money.

It's sort of like tag-team wrestling, so he needs a partner. The Catholic Church considers it a sin, but all the wrestlers wear masks and costumes, so Nacho Libre becomes a reality.

Nacho's partner is Esquelito (Hector Jimenez), a skinny, dirty trash picker that the flies light on - with good reason. Half the time he speaks with a Spanish accent and the other half it's distinctly East Indian. And so it goes.

"Nacho Libre" missed the mark on humor and that's the biggest sin - it's not funny. As intended, it is completely politically incorrect. That can work (in talented hands), if it's not also entirely insulting and shows no intelligence on the part of the filmmakers and no regard for the audience, or those being defamed. We did not expect this from Jack Black.

We're pretty sure the only reason this picture got made was because Jack Black's name was attached to it. "Nacho Libre" sucks in a lot of hot air and spews out racism all over nearly every scene.

Stay away.

New to DVD

16 Blocks (PG-13): A modestly absorbing, but unexceptional buddy film that stars the unlikely duo of cinematic tough guy Bruce Willis and rapper Mos Def. The saving grace of the movie is the great interplay between the two actors, but it isn't quite enough to make the film special.

"16 Blocks" offers some decent thrills, convincing car crashes and superb stunt work, but it's too slick, and it sticks a bit too closely to its formula. Action and buddy film fans will like it, and it might make a decent rainy day rental. Provided to Reel Movie Critic by Vittorio J. Carli.

Out of control with no direction

By PAM & GEORGE O. SINGLETON

Shawn Boswell (Lucas Black of "Jarhead") is a California teen who loves to street race. After an impressive and very reckless drag race through a new development under construction, Shawn is in trouble with the police once again. His single mother ships him off to live with his father, a military guy who is stationed in Tokyo. His father is glad to have Shawn, as long as he follows the rules. We know that won't happen, that's not who Shawn is.

Shawn quickly gets into the local drag-racing scene after he meets Twinkie (Bow Wow), a local hustler who thinks he's Mr. Ebay. When Shawn and Neela (Nathalie Kelley) respond to their mutual attraction to one another, Shawn goes up against D.K. (the Drift King), who is also Tokyo's top drift racer. Drifting incorporates break-neck speed with hairpin turns and switchbacks that the racers allow their cars to "drift" into.

The stage is set. We have our conflict, which will eventually be resolved by who wins a race. But before we get to that part in the movie, Shawn must learn how to drift.

Director Justin Lin seems determined to present portrayals of attractive women as airheads, while at the same time trying to show them as somewhat brainy. He did this in "Annapolis" as well. Too little, too late. Drop the dimwit wattage.

While there were a few good moments, the operative word here is few, and that does not sustain a feature length movie.

The acting is B-movie all the way. Bow Wow's role is pitifully underwritten and in our mind racist because of its stupidity and stereotyping. An even bigger sin is the film's sexism. The women who wore the revealing outfits with non-speaking parts were the relative winners. The big losers were the women that said what they were thinking, which was that they existed for the sole purpose of pleasing men. One even proudly announced, as a race was about to begin, "the winner gets me." This is one of those rare movies where the more you reflect on what you saw, the more insulted you become with what has been presented to you as entertainment.

We'd rate this movie NC-17 for being stupid and extremely offensive, with only a marginal amount of fun.

It for sure ain't PG-13 by our standards.

'Half and Half' probes elusive happiness

By TOM WITOM

thomaswitom@yahoo.com

Playwright James Sherman takes another crack at the dynamics of the marriage relationship in his newest comedy, "Half and Half," making its premiere at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater.

Tolstoy got it wrong when he wrote in "Anna Karenina" that happy families are all alike, one of Sherman's characters observes, noting, "I think unhappy families are all alike."

Unquestionably, the two couples in "Half and Half" have their share of issues to work out, but this time Sherman makes it something of a cumbersome process.

Act I is set on the first Earth Day in 1970. Susan (Laura T. Fisher) and Stewart (Joe Dempsey), though married for 18 years and parents of a 15-year-old daughter Lucy (Mattie Hawkinson), find out how little they really know about each other.

Susan, an unfulfilled, college-educated stay-at-home mom, is about to take the plunge as an activist by joining her first protest march, which is not something her husband, Stewart, embraces with open arms.

"Why shouldn't I be concerned about the earth?" Susan asks.

"What business is it of yours?" Stewart blithely replies.

Influenced by the nascent feminist movement and consciousness-raising groups she has secretly attended, Susan is ready to spread her wings.

"I have a problem that has no name," she tries to explain to her husband. "I don't know where I am." An unsympathetic Stewart, meanwhile, drops a bombshell of his own.

Flash forward to Act II, a counterpoint to its predecessor that takes place on July 5, 2005. This time Fisher plays a grown-up Lucy who is living in the house where she was raised. She's married to Jeremy (Dempsey), a former advertising executive who now runs the house and is the primary stay-at-home parent to their 15-year-old daughter Katie (Hawkinson).

Lucy, a harried, high-powered lawyer, finds herself unable to advance in her career and out of the loop in her relationship with her daughter. After 18 years of marriage, she finds her husband's ways annoying. Meanwhile, Jeremy, a sensitive soul, is growing more and more frustrated with the way his life has turned out.

In both acts, a homework report is due, and Lucy/Katie briefly discusses the significance of Robert Frost's "The Road Not Taken."

Sherman's characters draw the obvious conclusions about making best choices, yet there's a note of optimism as they discuss "working together to get the full human knowledge of who we are."

"Half and Half," under the direction of Dennis Zacek's, serves up a few timely insights on contemporary family life. Taken as a whole, however, the comedy needs more fine-tuning.

Chicago couple emulates popular performance style

By MATT PERA

mpera@nwnewsgroup.com

At the height of its popularity more than 100 years ago, vaudeville performances were known for the wide variety of acts they offered.

During its heyday between the 1880s and 1920s, world famous performers such as Charlie Chaplin, Abbott and Costello, Fred Astaire and Waukegan native Jack Benny would take the stage at theaters throughout the country as part of vaudeville lineups.

For the past six years, a Chicago couple has worked to emulate that theatrical style with Vaudeville Underground, a monthly variety show that runs the gamut of performance art.

Entertainers and artists from throughout Chicago and the suburbs have collaborated for the show, which takes place during the summer and fall at Glade Memorial Hall in the city's Logan Square neighborhood.

Christopher Ellis and his wife, Dawn Marie Galtieri, founded Vaudeville Underground as an extension of their nonprofit organization, Arts Alliance, which offers classes in the arts to children.

Each show consists of nine, 10-minute acts, each one representing a different genre of performance.

While a ballet performance might be followed by a poetry reading, followed by a circus artist, Ellis, who is the master of ceremonies for the show, said he does not assign more value to any one category.

"We might have something very challenging next to something very easygoing," he said.

Ellis said most of the artists are professionals involved in performances all over Chicago. He explained they often used Vaudeville Underground to hone new material, or to simply branch out and meet other entertainers.

Many of the performers participate in Vaudeville Underground each month and are required to offer something new and unique every time, Ellis explained.

He added the vaudeville format not only broadened the horizons of the audience, but also provided fresh inspiration to the performers.

Those new partnerships have formed several times over the years, Ellis said. Some examples have been a classical pianist joined on stage by a tango dancer and a Gaelic singer accompanied by African Djembe drums.

"It is very warm and very noncompetitive," Galtieri said of the atmosphere at shows. "Artists watch each other, and we've had collaborations grow from that. We're just trying to build an artistic community."

Wine tasting comes to Volo country village

VOLO — Volo Historic Country Village will host its first Appraisal Affair and Wine Tasting Event from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on June 24.

The event will take place in the Classic Car Showroom, Antique Mall No. 3, located at 27640 W. Volo Village Road near the intersection of Routes 12 and 120.

MIR Appraisal Service and William Milne will provide verbal evaluation of items.

The Wine Tasting event is hosted by Midwest Wine Consultants.

The cost of appraisal is $10 for the first item and $5 for the second.

There is a limit of two items per person. Preregistration is recommended. Books and musical instruments cannot be evaluated.

Midwest Wine Consultants will be offering five summer wines for tasting. Cost is $8 at the door.

For more information, call Volo Antique Malls at (815) 344-6062, or visit them online at www.voloshopping.com.

Tasty treats at Taste of Chicago

CHICAGO — Residents' tongues will be spoiled after visiting one of the many activities and food vendors at the 26th annual Taste of Chicago.

The event runs from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. from June 30 to July 9 at Grant Park.

Tasty treats include Eli's

Cheesecake, over 300 food menu items, performers, such as Macy Gray and Jo Dee Messina, a Food Network pastry chef contest, Farmers Market Day and family games.

Food and beverage tickets are sold in strips of 11 for $7 per strip and can be bought in advance from June 22 to 29 at Dominick's with a Fresh Values card.

For more information on Taste of Chicago, call the mayor's office of special events at (312) 744-3315, or visit their Web site at www.tasteofchicago.us.

History of the event

In 1980 a group of restaurateurs approached the mayor of Chicago with the idea of a food festival on the Fourth of July, and Taste of Chicago was born.

It was a huge success, (250,000 attended the first "Taste," and food and soda sales grossed $330,000).

The festival was held in a three-block area of Michigan Avenue.

Health Beat

Goodbye, sugar

As a continuation of last week's Health Beat, eating for weight loss, the goal for the second month of weight loss is to eliminate white sugar.

On some level, most of us know sugar is not healthy, but do you really know how devastating sugar is? About 100 years ago, the average yearly intake of sugar was only about 4 pounds per person. Today, the average American consumes 150 to 170 pounds of sugar a year! Eliminating sugar too fast can cause withdrawal symptoms, such as headaches, mood swings, depression, fatigue and cravings.

The research of Alfred Lopez in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, Volume 18, pointed to sugar as being a significant player in the development of heart disease.

Sugar causes an increase in the adhesiveness of the blood platelets, which may be the reason for its role in heart disease. Sugar is also implicated as a causative factor in Type II Diabetes, osteoporosis, kidney disease, liver disease, obesity and depression.

Sugar may contribute to the growth of cancerous tumors, as cancer cells seem to love sugar. Every tablespoon of sugar depresses the immune system for 3 to 4 hours. There are 12 tablespoons of sugar in one can of soda, so that means your immune system is suppressed for 36 to 48 hours just by consuming a 12 oz can of soda.

Sugar is far more fattening for most people than fat is. The worst type of sugar is fructose, often found as high-fructose corn syrup, which is now everywhere in processed foods, including soft drinks, baked goods, fruit juices and ketchup.

Kids are particularly vulnerable - the foods they love are filled with the stuff, and as a result of consuming these foods, they are becoming obese and developing Type II Diabetes at an alarming rate. High-fructose corn syrup is even an ingredient in those touted-as-healthy, low-calorie frozen dinners. Read labels carefully. Anything that ends in "ose" is a form of sugar, such as glucose, sucrose, fructose, maltose, lactose, dextrose, galactose, etc. Also watch for "monosaccharides" and "disaccharides," which are also fancy names for sugar.

Almost all sugar on the market is highly processed, and as such the nutrient-dense molasses of the sugarcane plant has been stripped away. The only sugar on the market that is a whole food is from Brazil and is called Rapadura, which literally means "unseparated sugar." This can be found at Whole Foods and Trader Joe's.

If you must use sugar, some alternatives are: "Sucanat," "Turbinado" and "Raw Sugar." Just remember sugar is sugar, so consume in moderation.

To wean yourself off sugar, you may find it helpful to take a gram or two a day of omega 3 fish oils, which reduce the cravings. Increasing the healthy fats helps with sugar cravings as well. Try coconut oil, palm oil and whole fat foods.

Mall of America offers same old shops

hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Monday through Friday, and sometimes on evenings and weekends, my husband John and I have to be "people persons." We both work in fields that require us to work closely with various members of the public, and, when we get a little down time, we often become shut-ins.

When March rolled around, we started asking each other, "Where do you want to go for Memorial Day weekend?" We thought it would be good to get out from our respective work communities for a while and see something different.

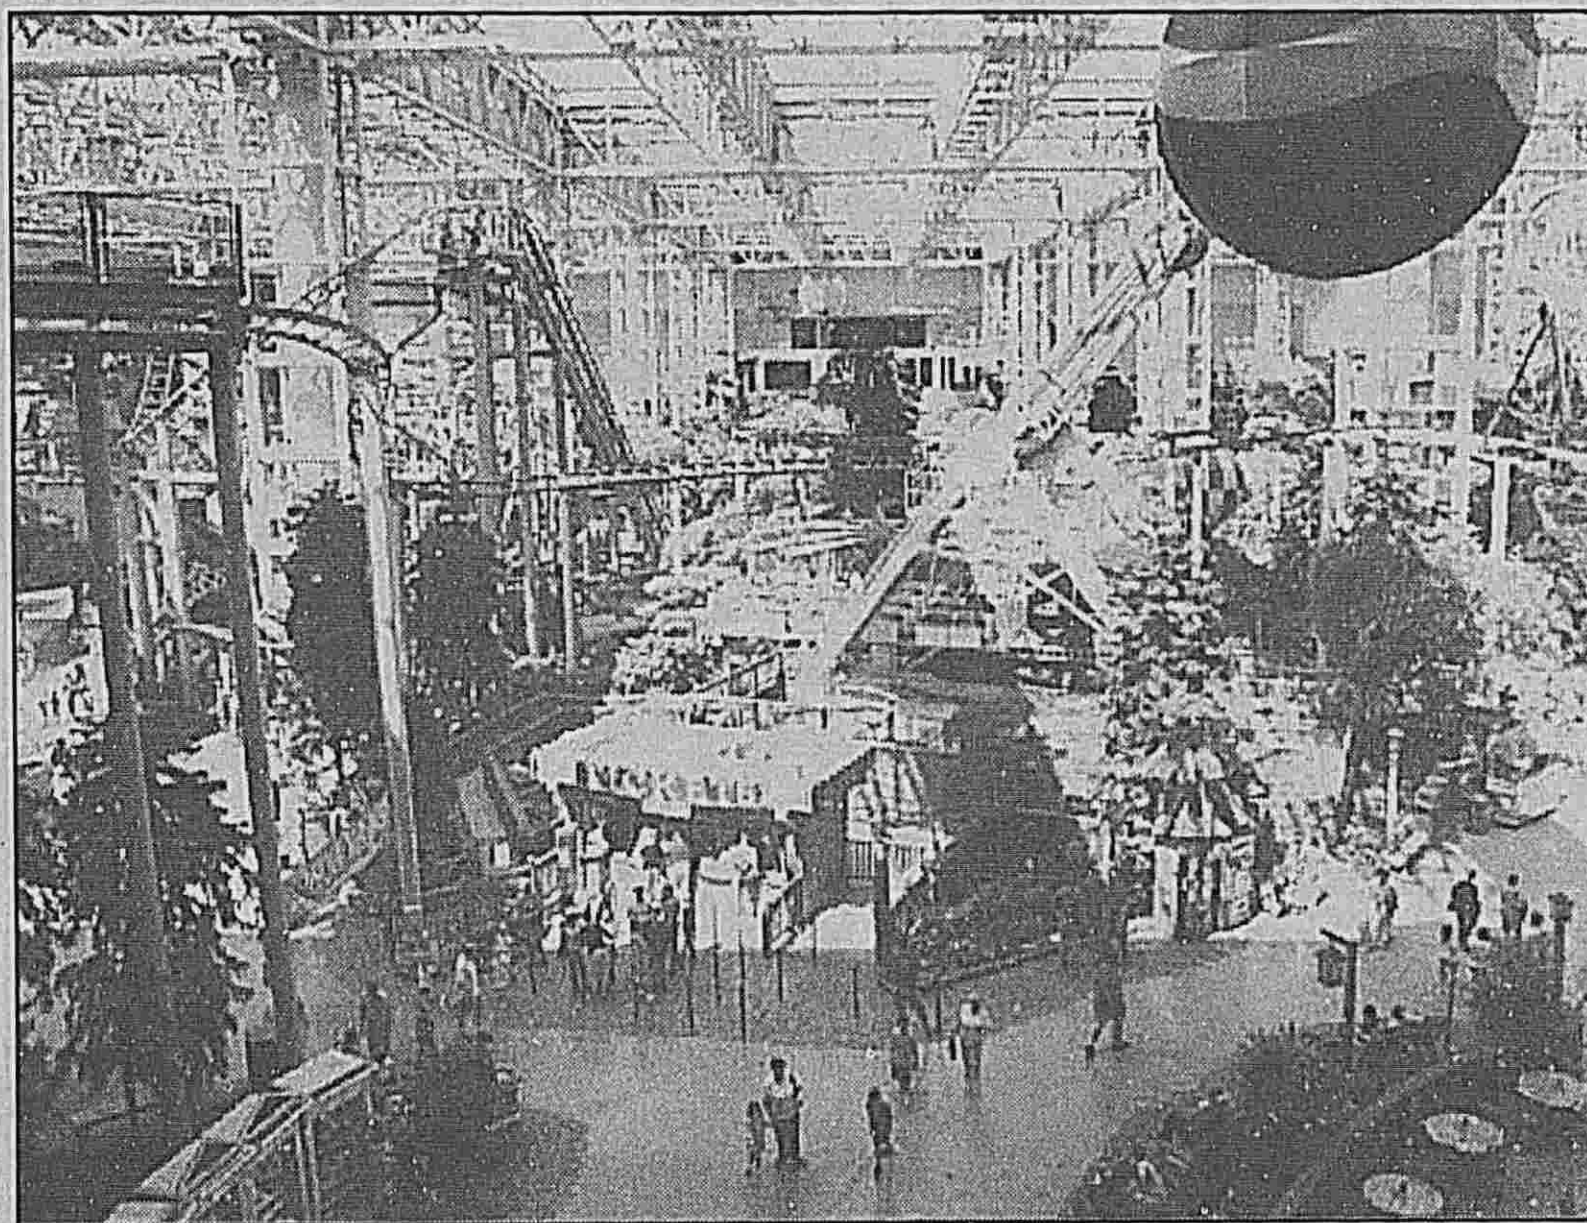

Before John and I got married and he moved to Lake County, he was a typical Chicago guy. He didn't leave the city very often, and when he did, he certainly didn't go to some of the surrounding touristy places that I love to go, like Holland, Mich., The Dells, St. Louis and Shipshewana, Ind.

We thought about all of those and decided they would probably be overrun with other tourists on Memorial Day weekend, so we went the other direction. We opted for the Mall of America near Minneapolis/St. Paul.

My husband and I aren't big shoppers, but we do enjoy all the bizarre experiences you can get from going to a mall. We enjoy a leisurely walk, people watching, laughing at the latest fashion trends and remarking to one another on how rude people are becoming (especially young, wealthy soccer moms armed with baby strollers, chatting incessantly on their cell phones).

Mall of America certainly did provide all that.

We arrived in Bloomington, Minn. around 4 p.m. on Friday and checked into our reserved room at the AmeriSuites. For $100 a night, we got a king-size suite, and for another $10 a night we could bring our dog. That's cheaper than keeping the little guy in a kennel, so we brought him along. He received a little goody-basket with a squeak toy shaped like a flip-flop, a couple of dog biscuits and a door placard with his name on it to warn housekeeping he was in the room.

Helen Mansfield — hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

The Mall of America may be short on shopping substance, but its layout is a circus-like assault on the senses.

The king-sized bed was no treat for us humans, but the room was overall comfy. Bloomington is located right next door to the Minneapolis/St. Paul airport, but the room was pretty well soundproof.

Like most hotels in the area, AmeriSuites offered an hourly shuttle drop-off and pick-up to the Mall of America, and they offered a pretty nice breakfast spread each morning, complete with eggs, sausage and waffles, along with fruit, juice and the carbohydrates of your choice.

After being stuck in my Mini Cooper for almost 5 hours for the drive over, we took the dog on a good, long walk, set him up with a pillow, food and cold water, and we jumped the first shuttle to the mall.

Naturally, John was the only man on the shuttle, other than the bus driver. The mall was in walking distance from the hotel, but we wanted to save our legs. The other ladies were chatting excitedly about getting to the mall and doing the whole "shop 'til you drop" thing, and I actually was getting caught up in it,

Mall of America, or MOA as the locals call it, has at least six of its own shops where you can get maps of the facility, along with MOA T-shirts, buttons and other souvenirs. A map is a pretty handy thing there because you will get turned around if you're not paying attention.

The MOA has three levels of shopping, and in the center are two additional floors to house the MOA amusement park.

As a child, my parents took me to the long-defunct Old Chicago theme park in Bolingbrook, which MOA reminded me of.

I admit I have been spoiled in my mall experiences, having lived near Chicago with access to Old Orchard in Skokie and Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg, but I found MOA a bit dull.

We were pleasantly surprised the crowds weren't too large, but I found the mall to be kind of dark and dingy. As far as the actual shops, they didn't have anything that I wouldn't be able to find at the Westfield Mall in Vernon Hills. I guess I expected to see a couple of high-end shops like Louis Vuitton, Chanel, or Tiffany's. Though it's not likely I would have spent any money there, either.

A friend recommended a mall restaurant called the Twin City Grill, which was a nice martini bar/steak house establishment. I enjoyed my shrimp DeJong, and John's filet mignon encrusted with blue cheese was terrific.

MOA had the usual food court fare, along with nicer, sit-down places like Tiger Sushi, Tucci Benucch, Hooters, Ruby Tuesday, Bubba Gump Shrimp Co. and a Rainforest Cafe.

All-in-all, MOA delivered what I had hoped for. That end of the Midwest didn't look all that different, but we did get lots of exercise. I even think the dog enjoyed getting away. If you're in the mood to go malling, you might as well stay close to home.

'Hitman' lets players feel the thrill

It's beautiful here at this suburban home. Birds chirp. A lawn weeps from being watered. A clown walks inside to entertain children at a birthday party. I am also strolling up the sidewalk, but to assassinate a man in the house – a guy in witness protection – with a knife, a bomb, or a gun. My choice.

This is one of more than a dozen missions I will be paid a half-million bucks each to carry out in "Hitman: Blood Money." I am not a nice person, but I am extraordinary at my vocation.

Doug Elfman

I've anticipated this game more than any other this year. "Hitman" titles are ultra violent in a face-to-face way, but they pose intricate and intellectual challenges – to sneak around and take out mean people. "Blood Money" is no disappointment.

I am a chrome-dome mercenary, an operative named with a number, 47, and described by others as "the bald killer clone." I'm the test-tube result of genetic tinkering.

Cities and other settings look good at first, but become even more extravagant as the game moves on. In South America I crack into a party on a huge estate scattered with armed guards, and I sneak through hallways and windows to find the owner of a winery and extinguish him while he's playing cello.

One of the great routines in the "Hitman" series is being a chameleon of sorts. You knock out a waiter, for instance, or a villain's security guard and put on his clothes to go undercover. If you kill such non-essential targets, you hide their bodies in Dumpsters and dark corners. Correct, this is pretty vile.

But it's surprisingly addictive to track through a Mississippi mansion, or a pornographer's grotto to complete a job, either as a top professional (killing only evil targets), or as a mass murderer (blasting away dozens of henchmen before getting to the villains themselves). The choice is with the gamer on which way to go.

Because video games are so often under attack for violence, there is some sympathy built into "Blood Money." In Paris, 47 must break into a rehearsal of Puccini's opera, "Tosca," and shoot a tenor and an American ambassador, but only because those two guys are running a prostitution trafficking ring.

Where is it hardest to kill terrorists? Yep, in the security fortresses of Las Vegas casinos and the White House. In Vegas, terrorist types include a woman wearing only a thin ribbon, strategically placed, as she does cartwheels toward me, swinging sharp knives in her claws.

After each level, a local newspaper pops onto the screen, detailing the carnage. The Vegas newspaper colorfully calls me "an experienced shooter of limited skill and dangerous enthusiasm."

That story sits next to another article headlined, "Lion mutilates 42 midgets in Cambodian ring-fight." That's a funny headline, but the game's message is clear: A hitman is bad, so much so that he's just another news item in a violent society of terrorists and home-grown criminals. That is one dark outlook, but it's the truth in many people's minds.

Coming soon to stores:

"MotoGP '06" is a different kind of racing game, taking place on motorcycles on 17 tracks. The June 13 release retails for $60 for Xbox 360. It's rated "E" for mild lyrics.

"Urban Chaos: Riot Response" puts helicopters and rifles in the hands of the gamer, who must beat down gangs during riots. The June 13 release retails for $40 for Xbox and PS 2. It's rated "M" for blood, gore, some language and intense violence.

Used game of the week:

With summer kid-movie fare out this year, it bears revisiting last year's movie-based, animated game "Madagascar" for Xbox, PS 2 and GCube. It's a playful, fun ride featuring zoo characters on the run, although the actors' voices are different from those in the film.

Since the game's been out a few seasons, it's selling in used game stores for $15 and less. It's rated "E 10+" for cartoon violence and crude humor.

● Immigration in Lake County

Need for bilingual education grows

By MATT PERA

mpera@nwnewsgroup.com

New teachers, new classmates, a new locker combination. The first day at an unfamiliar school can intimidate any student.

Throw in learning a new language, and that task becomes even more daunting. Thousands of students students throughout Lake County, in numbers that are consistently growing, face the challenge every year.

In most cases, the students are Spanish-speaking. Under federal law, school districts with 20 or more students who speak minimal English in each grade are required to provide those students with classes in their native language.

As families continue to immigrate from Mexico and Latin America to Lake County, school districts continue to expand their federal-mandated bilingual programs, in which students are taught in Spanish. An English as a Second Language (ESL) class is also required, designed to integrate students into the district's general education curriculum.

Anne Swanson said she had seen those programs grow tremendously during the six years she has held her current post as Associate Superintendent of Curriculum, Instruction and Accountability of Woodland Consolidated District 50.

Gun training, without bullets

rklugiewicz@nwnewsgroup.com

MUNDELEIN – When my partner and I walked into the location of a domestic disturbance, two brothers were fighting. One pulled out a gun and shot at my partner, who then shot back.

Obviously I'm not a real police officer, but that was one of my scenarios during the "simulations"/scenarios lesson with the Mundelein Citizen Police Academy.

For the class, the students in the police academy paired up as police partners.

We donned helmets, gloves, neck guards and bullet proof vests. We stored our guns, modified to fire small paintball cartridges rather than bullets, in our holster belts.

Two police officers acted as the "bad guys" during the scenarios, which took place in the shooting range in the basement of the Mundelein Police Department.

Each pair of partners had three scenarios. During the first scenario two police officers acted as brothers in a fight. My partner shot one of the brothers. I didn't have to shoot. To get the brothers to break up the fight, we yelled commands like "break it up" and "back off." Unfortunately, the brothers didn't listen.

The second scenario was trickier. We were called to respond to a suicidal man who had been drinking all day.

He was waving a gun at us, and we had to respond accordingly. He didn't want us to get too close, so we stayed away while yelling at him to drop the gun. It didn't work, and he ended up killing himself.

The third scenario involved a hostage situation.

Officer Brian Kisselburg said police train with the simulation equipment in buildings that are going to be torn down and in the FBI shooting range. The police last used the equipment before the Gale Street Inn was torn down.

Kisselburg said the scenarios give police "real-life experience" and teaches them to stay together when responding to calls.

•This is the ninth article in a 10-part series about the Mundelein Citizen Police Academy.

Scarpelli joins bank board of directors

State Bank of The Lakes recently added Mark Scarpelli to its board of directors.

Scarpelli is an owner of Raymond Chevrolet, a family-operated car dealership located on Route 173 in Antioch. He said he places a good deal of importance on community involvement.

"I was thrilled to be considered for the position (on the board of directors) and take my directorship responsibilities very seriously," he said.

Scarpelli attended Antioch Community High School and earned degrees in business administration and automotive marketing from Northwood College in Midland, Mich.

He returned to the family business in Antioch in 1987 and, in addition to his new directorship role with State Bank of The Lakes, is on the board of directors for the Chicagoland Better Business Bureau, serves as treasurer for the Chicago Area Transit Authority and the Lindenhurst/Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce.

State Bank of The Lakes currently operates five full-service facilities, located in Antioch, Lindenhurst, Grayslake, Spring Grove and McHenry.

● Our View

Helmet use is a no-brainer

Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Ben Roethlisberger was not wearing a helmet when he crashed his motorcycle June 12.

He flew off his bike head first into a windshield, breaking his jaw, as well as suffering other facial injuries.

Roethlisberger, 24, spent seven hours in surgery.

"By the grace of God, I'm fortunate to be alive," Roethlisberger said in a statement, adding that if he ever rides a motorcycle again, "it certainly will be with a helmet."

Well, duh.

If Roethlisberger had put out a statement saying he still intended to ride without a helmet, it would have been time for another CAT scan.

The notion of wearing a helmet while streaking down a concrete or asphalt roadway on a high-powered motorcycle would seem to be a no-brainer. Unfortunately, too many motorcyclists still choose to not wear helmets.

Scripps Howard News Service conducted a study that found the per-capita rate of motorcycle deaths was 41 percent greater in the 30 states that do not require all motorcyclists to wear helmets.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, in 2004 in Illinois, of the 157 motorcycle fatalities, 119 riders were not wearing helmets.

If all riders had been wearing helmets, the federal agency reported, 47 riders would have lived - 30 percent.

Nationally, about 4,000 motorcyclists die annually in crashes. In 2004, 670 lives, or about 17 percent of the people, could have been saved if every motorcyclist wore a helmet, according to the Scripps Howard study.

Why then, based on all this information, does Illinois not have a mandatory helmet law? It would seem logical to do so given other requirements, such as laws mandating the use of seat belts.

But helmets do not prevent crashes. And the larger issue is, should government legislate common sense?

The choice of whether to wear a helmet was his, and he made it.

Should it be the government's job to step in and remove that choice?

Although it is clear that motorcyclists should wear helmets and that not doing so is engaging in unnecessarily reckless behavior, it still should be up to the individual.

At some point, people have to take responsibility for their own actions. It is not the government's job to hold the hands of adults through every decision they make.

If people are too foolish to realize that they should wear helmets while riding their motorcycles, well, that's their problem. Sometimes, for eternity.

● Off and Running

Bush made right choice to downplay al-Zarqawi's death

Due to a production error this column did not run in its entirety last week. The complete column appears below. Lakeland Journals regrets the error.

I've got to hand it to the White House. President George Bush, in stark contrast to the spring 2003 "Mission Accomplished" aircraft carrier speech, tempered an ebullient mood about last week's death of top terrorist Abu Musab al-Zarqawi.

This might have a little something to do with the Haditha Marine/Iraqi civilian scandal.

The tone turned out particularly appropriate when news of three hanging suicides at Guantanamo Bay's detainee center broke.

Support for the war continues to decline: AP/Ipsos released poll results, shortly before news of al-Zarqawi's death was announced, showing a new high in the number of people who think the U.S. made a mistake in going to war. It is at 59 percent, up from 34 percent in December of 2004.

This same poll asked the 1,003 adults who completed the survey what they thought of the Republican controlled Congress and showed only 24 percent approved of the way it is doing its job, with 52 percent wanting Democrats to regain control of Congress in November.

Washington knows this, which is why the push to keep and regain Republican seats in Congress has shined a light on Illinois.

The White House is deep in the throws of a love affair with Lake County as evidenced by Karl Rove's May visit and President Bush's visit on behalf of gubernatorial candidate Judy Barr Topinka later this month.

But apparently only the up and comers are the target of Washington's cupid's arrow.

Vice President Dick Cheney snubbed Senator Adeline Geo-Karis on the tarmac of the Waukegan Regional Airport last Monday when he came to Lincolnshire for what resulted in a $300,000 fundraising stop. The Secret Service relegated Geo-Karis to her Lincoln Continental and eroded some goodwill in a long-time Cheney supporter.

Accusations fly in Eighth District race

In a fit of dueling press releases, incumbent 8th Congressional District Rep. Melissa Bean and Republican candidate David McSweeney are vying for ink — one by touting recent accomplishment, the other by shining a spotlight on spending issues.

Bean's office announced that the House agreed to amendment HR 5576, The Transportation, Treasury, HUD and DC Appropriations Act that would increase funding for the U.S. Department of Transportation's Office of Fuel Economy from $1.3 million to $8 million.

Bean believes public-private partnerships would encourage the auto industry to improve the fuel economy of their vehicles, and stimulate the development of strategies that help automakers modify their manufacturing processes to produce more fuel efficient passenger cars and light trucks.

Staying true to her commitment to battle identity theft, she also introduced HR 5487, The Veterans ID Theft Protection Act, which would require the Department of Veterans Affairs to provide six-months of free credit monitoring for the veterans whose personal information was stolen from the VA last month.

The bill would also authorize up to $100 million in funding to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to provide credit monitoring and make certain the VA has all necessary negotiating powers to secure the best possible price for the credit monitoring services.

McSweeney used the recent study conducted by Northwestern University's Medill News Service and the Center for Public Integrity and American Public Media, which tracked Congressional private-paid travel, to paint his opponent as following in the footsteps of ex-congressman Phil Crane.

The study reported that since January 2005 Bean, or her staffers, has taken nine private-paid trips at a cost of $14,387.

The McSweeney campaign provided Lakeland Journals with scanned copies of travel disclosure forms, signed by Bean, showing four trips she took between January and April of 2005 which were paid by organizations such as the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges, and the Democratic Leadership Council.

According to McSweeney, Bean is traveling at the expense of special interest groups.

McSweeney called on Bean and her staff to reimburse those entities for the expenses.

"The irony, or hypocrisy, here is that Melissa Bean relentlessly criticized Phil Crane for his travel and then did it herself," McSweeney said. "The people of the 8th District should be respected by whoever represents them in Congress and as a member of Congress I will not accept travel paid for by outside entities."

Bean spokesman Brian Herman commented in an interview that their office "always adheres to best practices and uses resources in the right way."

Travel expenses

Sans blessing of Trustee Ray Damijonaitis, the Gurnee Village Board of Trustees approved $6,340 to send village officials to conferences.

Damijonaitis voted nay; other trustees voted aye.

Resident Kevin Moss expressed his disapproval of the village's sponsorship of officials' attendance of such events in light of Gurnee's implementation of a food and beverage tax, along with other revenue generators, under the budget plan for fiscal year 2006-2007.

Damijonaitis agreed with Moss.

"We're raising taxes, but we're not cutting back on any expenses," he said. "We were told we were going to be cutting back."

Mayor Kristina Kovarik said attendees of such summits submit reports to the board that detail the benefits gained. This, she said, allows the board to evaluate the events' value and necessity. She added that certain officials require continuing education to maintain their licenses' validity.

Gurnee police officers Al Marquardt, communications and records supervisor, and Jim Richardson, shift leader, will attend the Association of Public-Safety Communications Officials (APCO) in Orlando, Fla.

David Ziegler, village engineer, and Terry Williams, public works street superintendent, will go to the International Public Works congress and Exposition in Kansas City, Mo.

If Blagojevich broke a promise, would it be a surprise?

• CEPEDA

Meanwhile, 8th Congressional District candidate David McSweeney enjoyed an invite to the ultra-exclusive private party as well as personal words of support from the VP.

Don't take it too hard Geo-Karis, the next day Cheney turned around and blew off a planned meeting, without explanation with Galymzhan Zhakiyanov, the Nelson Mandela of Kazakhstan, to discuss the problems facing freedom and democracy there.

This despite deep desire to court Kazakhstan, which is expected to emerge as one of the world's top ten, non-Middle Eastern, sources of oil and natural gas. So, Geo-Karis, you keep good company.

Money troubles

This week brought stunning plans from Springfield to convert the Governor's mansion into a privately-run luxury bed and breakfast generating an estimated one-time $151 million windfall to be used to fund Gov. Rod Blagojevich's universal pre-school program.

Wait, no, my brain must have made that up due to a lack of any real planning or information from the Blagojevich administration regarding his plans to sell the Illinois Lottery and tollways to generate new income.

Generally, we tend to admire it when politicians stick to their guns. But at this point, don't we think ill-enough of the governor that, should he go back on his promise of no tax

Budget blues

Speaking of money troubles, I'd like to think that open government and more sunshine laws are the cure-all for government bodies but in the case of the village of Lakemoor, where even the village trustees- heck, even the president herself- got blindsided by serious mismanagement allegations, I'm not so sure.

Misspent money, laxity in village checking practices, and general fiscal disarray are threatening to shutdown the municipal operations of sleepy Lakemoor.

They are staring down a July 31 deadline to get their house in order and approve an operating budget.

Candidate for Senate 31st District

As a staunch Republican, I want to bring to the attention of Lake County residents the opportunity we have in the senate race in November to bring a fresh face and energy to the 31st District.

Michael Bond introduced himself to me as the Democratic candidate for Senate in the 31st district recently. He is the father of a young family and a 10-year resident of Grayslake. He explained in detail why he was running and his intentions when elected. His background and educational qualifications are extraordinary. He was promoted eight times in eight years into the top 1.5 percentage of company management at Allstate Insurance Co.

Michael's financial background, abilities, and outlook are just what Lake County needs. Our property taxes have skyrocketed in recent years. Schools have failed to maintain acceptable educational standards. Our roads and infrastructure are 15 years behind schedule. Michael has the insight to get our district back on track and into the 21st century.

I will not forgo an opportunity to have someone of his stature serve the district in Springfield. I've voted extensively Republican in my life, but Michael will get my support and that of my family and friends on Nov. 7. I sincerely hope that the people of Lake County will follow my lead.

Joseph W. Sbarboro
Grayslake

Do they really know what they are doing?

The environmental group of the Lake County Board created a Unified Development Ordinance that made it almost impossible to build a house in the unincorporated areas of the county.

They also raised the permit rates to a staggering sum to further discourage development. They even charge you if you disagree with a decision and request a hearing and then load the committee with their buddies. Some people classify that as a Kangaroo Court.

At face value the UDO sounded like a good idea, but it didn't work and this is the reason why.

We have a case in Lincolnshire where a person wanted to build two houses on 10 acres and was rejected by the county many times in the more than 30 years I have lived here. If he were allowed to build it would mean four more children in the school system and six more cars, because the average home has three cars.

the city and seek annexation and succeeded to be allowed to build 10 homes and that created 20 new children in our school system and 30 more cars.

As environmentalist are we really doing the right thing?

Wouldn't we be much better off with the two houses instead of 10?

The problem with our County Board is this; They allow staff to run the county and have allowed the county administrator to control everything through the board chairman.

We have far too many commissioners. Why do we have commissioners in Highland Park, Deerfield, Waukegan, Zion, North Chicago, Libertyville and more? They have little or no unincorporated land. One commissioner would be plenty for those mentioned areas.

We also need a board chairman that is not elected as a commissioner to rid the politics from the system.

We must separate the Forest Preserve from the county business. The day we are eligible to do so to eliminate the conflict of interest between the two.

Building and Zoning is suing everyone in sight and treating the public like unwanted children.

full board to approve a lawsuit against a private citizen the suits will stop. Building and zoning should be charged by the State's Attorney the same way the defendant is charged. Most defendants have to pay $250 an hour and more to seek justice. Building and zoning wouldn't be so quick to sue a poor private citizen if they knew they had to pay the lawyers.

Does it sound like environmentalist and sound business peoples are running the county? I don't think so.

Marvin Westfall
Lincolnshire

It was an emergency

In your May 26, Party Lines column, you reported some untruths regarding some recent events at Avon Township.

During the regular board meeting on May 8, a lively discussion was held regarding events that had been put into motion surrounding the sudden illness of our supervisor.

After checking with the township attorney, I did indeed call an emergency meeting. That would preclude the 48-hour minimum notice stated in the Open Meetings Act.

Our attorney assured me this event qualified as a bona fide emergency. He also stated that fact during the meeting of May 8, and that to not meet our payroll that week would have been a violation of the Wage and Hour Act.

Also, your article stated that the Lakeland Journals have not received notice of any Avon Township meetings in 2006.

While that may be true, the Open Meeting Act also states, "Every public body shall give notice of the schedule of regular meetings at the beginning of each calendar or fiscal year, and shall post the regular dates, times, and places of such meeting shall be posted at the principal office of the public body and at the location where the meeting is to be held."

A full schedule of the regular meetings of Avon Township are and have been posted on the bulletin board at the township and may be located at the upper left hand corner of the board.

I would appreciate a clarification of these issues in the next issue of the Lakeland Journal, as well as the fact that I have done nothing to violate the Illinois Open Meeting Act.

The best interest of this township and its resident's well-being is, and will continue to be, my highest priority.

Forum stresses the dangers of online journals for youths

hmansfield@nwnewgroup.com

WAUKEGAN — The Lake County Sheriff's Criminal Investigations Office recently constructed, and has been distributing, a "How to Find Your Kid's Online Blog" brochure.

The pamphlet is designed to help parents find what kind of information their children are posting to popular online journal sites like MySpace, LiveJournal, Xanga, Facebook and shows them how to search Google to see if their child has any information floating anywhere else on the Internet.

"In a perfect world, you could ask your teen if they keep a blog. He or she would answer honestly. But this isn't always the case," the form states.

"We give the brochure to any community-based group," Sgt. Christopher Thompson of the Lake County Sheriff's department said. "The Internet is an amazing tool, but there's always a hidden danger."

At an Internet safety forum, hosted by U.S. Rep. Melissa Bean, D-Barrington in Round Lake Heights, stressed that parents must be aware that pedophiles and predators can get information just as easily as other young people.

Gail Heckmyer, technology facilitator for the Diamond Lake School District 76, doesn't feel that recent criticism of the Internet has been too heavy-handed.

Dealing with students in the district, Heckmyer has heard students say that they lie in their Internet profiles and when talking to others online, but they're certain that no one lies to them.

"Granted, the majority of them don't have anything bad happen to them," Heckmyer said. "But, they're kids until they're 18."

In many cases, Heckmyer said young people don't have well developed common sense. Why else, she asked, would a 12-year-old make themselves up to look 18.

"I'm a strong believer in self-policing," she said.

"Dateline NBC" has been broadcasting a number of "Catch a Predator" programs where police officers have posed as young teens and chat with the public at large. They often run into predators while they are online.

Thompson said these programs have brought attention to dangers on the Internet.

If a child is properly educated on how to remain safe on the Internet, Thompson said it doesn't matter who's lurking out there.

"There's no true way of telling how many predators are out there," Thompson said. "We only know the ones that are caught. But if you're safe, it doesn't matter."

Thompson said if he had to guess, he would say the number of pedophiles and predators looking for children on the Internet are "substantial."

At her Internet safety forum, Bean said she sponsored the bipartisan, Safer Net Act (HR 4982), the first Internet safety bill proposed.

On her Web site, Bean said the number of cyber-crimes against children and teenagers has increased every year since the inception of the Internet.

According to Highlights of the Youth Internet Safety Survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Justice "one in five children (10 to 17 years old) receive unwanted sexual solicitations online."

County officials prepares for natural disasters

By EMILY PREVITI

epreviti@nwnewsgroup.com

Tornadoes made Father's Day 2006 a memorable one for residents of Hartford, Wis.

Twisters knocked out power and damaged buildings in the town, located less than two hours north of Lake County, where community leaders have been thinking about ways to prepare for such incidents since last year.

Communities throughout the area are now in the process of adopting the county-wide All Natural Hazards Disaster Mitigation Plan.

Under the Disaster Mitigation Act (DMA) of 2000 the plan enables municipalities to apply for relief funds from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in the event of a natural disaster.

Rusty Rickart, FEMA hazard mitigation officer, said communities can receive funds for no more than 7.5 percent of damage costs.

Rickart explained that communities submit applications to their state emergency management agency - in this case, IEMA - which then forward on the applications it deems deserving. If FEMA approves the application, the state agency distributes funds to the state agency.

Jean Baker, external affairs officer for FEMA's Region 5, said planning encourages communities to develop strategies for diminishing risks.

"Then they can decrease the amount of losses they have when there is a disaster," she said.

Of 53 communities in the county, 43 participated in the formulation of the plan, which took place through a series of public meetings.

Communities are to evaluate their preparedness and then specify one project on which to work in order to increase readiness.

Michael Jackson, of Waukegan Police Department's Community Services Division, said the city chose to use its own professionals to conduct the assessment. The county-wide plan, he said, did not dictate whether communities should hire consultants to Federal funds help out

The U.S. government passed the Disaster Mitigation Act (DMA) of 2000 to address relief for natural disasters. It requires that, after Nov. 1, 2004, municipalities who apply for post-disaster mitigation funds also have a local mitigation plan that the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Waukegan has decided to develop a comprehensive plan, capital improvement plan, and land use plan to augment its preparedness.

Ken Lopez, village administrator for Beach Park, helped to develop the plan. He said he could not disclose Beach Park's chosen initiative, as they were "still working on it."

He did, however, acknowledge the need to establish a procedure to provide "basic services," like water and police protection, to citizens in the event of a natural disaster.

Martha Koechig, administrative assistant to the village administrator in Round Lake, said the village plans increase public education, enhance emergency management, and identify high-risk areas in an effort to mitigate natural hazards.

A resolution for Round Lake

Natural hazards that face Lake County

Planners consulted newspapers, Illinois State Geological Survey, National Weather Service and FEMA's hazards map to identify hazards based on their past occurrences in the county and potential for causing death, damage and injury.

These included seven floods, the most recent of which happened in 2004; 16 tornadoes since 1957; a severe thunderstorm in 1996; severe winter storms in 1999 and 2000; wildfires in 2003 and 2005; and extreme heat that impacted the young and elderly in 1999.

Moderate-risk: Dam failures, wildfires, ravine bank and lake erosion, extreme heat.

has not been approved, Koechig also said, but will be done in July.

Sara Agahi, of the Stormwater Management Commission of Lake County, said resolutions for "a handful" of communities - Grayslake, Gurnee, Lindenhurst, Libertyville, Park City, and Waukegan have been submitted.

Once all communities have adopted the plan via resolution, the commission can submit all paperwork to FEMA, which will then grant final approval of the plan.

Communities must adopt the resolution by Aug. 16, though Agahi said the commission would work with communities, should they need more time.

Ron Davis, State Hazard

Mitigation Officer for the IEMA, said communities impacted by a disaster between now and then would not be able to apply for federal aid until they adopted the plan via resolution, "but that can be done easily."

According to Davis, Lake County received a grant of $37,500 from FEMA in December 2003 to cover costs associated with formulating the plan.

Regional and local agencies also contributed to planning.

They included: SMC, Gurnee School District 56, Waukegan and Mundelein Park Districts, Lake County Health Department, Lake County Department of Transportation, and the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County.

New undersheriff brings experience to position

Fred Heidecke named undersheriff

By ESTHER J. CEPEDA

news@lakelandmedia.com

Fred Heidecke may be the busiest man at the Lake County Sheriff's Department these days. Not only has he stepped up to take over the duties of undersheriff, but he's also still performing the duties of his previous position as chief of administration.

"It's a double-banger," Heidecke said as he started his second week on the job. "Needless to say, it's been very hectic. All the other members of the team circled the wagons to fill the vacuum, including myself, so it's more of the same but more intense."

Heidecke took over the position vacated by Gary Stryker who resigned amid allegations of discrepancies in expenditures charged to county credit cards.

Once Stryker was gone, Heidecke was one of many Sheriff's Department employees who came together to make sure there would be no interruption in the workflow.

"By no means did I walk into a mess but I didn't have full comprehension of the volume of responsibilities because there were other team members making decisions," he said.

The head of that team, Sheriff Gary Del Re, made what he saw as a logical choice in picking Heidecke out of a small group of long-time sheriff's office employees.

Del Re said Heidecke's 27 years of experience, leadership roles such as deputy chief and chief of administration, and the respect he's earned in the department would make for a quick and easy transition.

Fred Heidecke

Lake County Undersheiff

“I didn't formally accept resumes because I knew the talent I was looking for was right here in the office,” Del Re said. “I had some high-ranking area law enforcement administrators contact me about the position but Fred already had a good grasp of what to do. This is an exciting time for us”

Although Heidecke never aspired to be a high ranking administrator in the sheriff's department, he credits good timing and good fortune to his new role and says his success will be shared with the entire staff of the sheriff's department.

“I'm honored that there's faith in me to do this,” Heidecke said. “But I will rely on all those people who do excellent work every day, from the newest clerk to the most senior deputy chief. No one person could do this job on his or her own.”

Heidecke says over the next year he expects to usher in a new era of consistent and fair treatment for all members of the sheriff's office, without favoritism to any one division. He plans on starting with revisions to internal policies such as Family and Medical Leave Act requests and sick leave requests.

“It's a big undertaking but I want to make things consistent throughout departments from law enforcement through clerical and corrections departments,” Heidecke said. “I want to reassure the sheriff's office that as a person who spent their entire career in the department, I know and share their concerns. Having been in their shoes, I will keep them in mind as I make decisions and keep working toward a positive transition period.”

Bilingual programs embrace both languages

• IMMIGRATION

"Our growth is dramatic," she said. "It's a small percentage [but] it has doubled. We are planning for that and we are anticipating that [growth to continue]."

District 50 serves kindergarten through eighth-grade students from Gages Lake and Wildwood, along with parts of Gurnee, Grayslake, Waukegan, Libertyville, Lake Villa, Park City, Third Lake and Old Mill Creek.

Swanson said that of about 7,200 students attending Woodland school's, 590, or eight percent, are enrolled in the bilingual program.

The district also has a bilingual parent advisory council, consisting of parents, teachers and administrators.

At the council's final meeting of the year in April 20, Swanson outlined the bilingual program's finances, saying it costs $876,750 to run. Federal funds amount to $56,000, state aid provides $231,103 and $589,647 comes from taxes.

The number of bilingual classes tapers off as students ascend through grade levels and become proficient enough to leave the bilingual education program, Swanson said.

And, while bilingual students are learning English in the classroom, she explained, faculty and staff encourage families to continue to speak Spanish at home.

"The reason is vocabulary enrichment," Swanson explained. "We'd rather [students] know 700 words in Spanish that we can build on in English rather than have parents speak in very limited English that limits [a student's] vocabulary," Swanson said.

But the district has also partnered with the College of Lake County's (CLC) Family Literacy Program, which works to improve the English proficiency of Spanish-speaking families with children up to six years old.

Melanie Muresan, CLC family literacy coordinator, said the program had grown during the past seven months, thanks in part to $248,000 grant that was secured by U.S. Rep. Mark Kirk, R-Highland Park.

Personal Perspective

Former Round Lake High School bilingual teacher Esther J. Cepeda recalls her experiences in the classroom. Page D10.

She explained that families in the classes take a proactive approach to learning English and preparing their children for school.

"I think it eases the burden because some of the kids that we have had in the program don't have to be in bilingual or ESL and can go straight to a regular classroom," she said.

While programs strive to prepare young children to speak English in the classroom, Swanson said districts throughout Lake County are preparing for increasing numbers requiring bilingual classes.

"Some of our school districts have long standing programs because of the demographics of the district and other districts have been caught off guard because of explosive growth that wasn't necessarily anticipated," she said.

Round Lake Area Schools District 116 represents a community with a large Hispanic population. The number of students requiring bilingual education has grown by five percent every year, according to District 116 Bilingual Education Coordinator Mytzy Rodriguez-Kufner.

She said Round Lake area public schools currently served 1,100 bilingual students.

Rodriguez-Kufner added that the dropout rate for bilingual high school students has improved in her district, decreasing from 6.9 percent in 2004-05 to 5.4 percent in 2005-06. But, she said, it is more difficult for teenagers to adjust to English instruction than for those who enter a bilingual program when they are younger.

"The older the student/person, the harder it is for them to acclimate," she said. "The younger the brain the easier it is for any human being to adapt and adopt a new language."

• This article is the third in a five-part series examining the immigrant population in Lake County. Staff reporter Emily Previti contributed to this report.

A glimpse inside bilingual classrooms

By ESTHER J. CEPEDA
news@lakelandmedia.com

It seems like no discussion about illegal immigration is complete without angry fist-shaking at the federal provision requiring school districts to provide students with native-language classes where there are twenty or more non-English proficient students in a grade level. In Illinois, as in most other states, that language is almost always Spanish.

These students are placed in a Transitional Bilingual program of instruction, receive English as a Second Language Services and receive the core curriculum classes such as math and science in their native language.

You may be angry about the cost and its drain on already scant resources, which could be going into mainstream classrooms, but that's between you and your legislator.

If it's bothering you that much you should make a point to change it – I encourage you to do so. Think of it as your patriotic duty.

But that discussion is neither here nor there. I want to tell you about what it's like inside bilingual classrooms. What you learn may surprise you – or not.

All English Language Learners face the challenge of being between cultures, but some are eager to start on a path to a better future while others are angry and resentful that they were pulled out of their happy, if meager, lives back in Mexico.

In those cases, kids aren't ready to learn, because while mom and dad may be sacrificing everything to give them a better life, to them, life at home was pretty darn good.

Many are here without a parent or two, without their family, or their friends or pets.

Not the best emotional state in which to learn a new language or new academic content in any language.

Some make it a point of pride to croak out a mangled greeting in broken English and beam proudly when you understand and, with a smile, reply with words of encouragement in English.

Others won't stand for the Pledge of Allegiance to our flag every morning because they don't, in fact, pledge allegiance and know no one can force them to.

In my algebra and writing classes, I saw kids who busted their humps to do homework and those who crumpled it up and threw it away as they walked out the door.

Esther J. Cepeda

I saw kids gathering to help each other out, forming their own study circles and reaching out to whomever could help them understand the material. I saw kids come to class without so much as a pencil or a piece of paper, because their carefully crafted outfit for the day would not accommodate academic accessories.

At the end of those many long and stressful days I would seek comfort in the classrooms of the "regular" algebra teachers and my heart would be rejuvenated with hope when they relayed the same exact stories of the same exact patterns or achievement, failure, and effort – or lack thereof – in their predominantly Caucasian classrooms.

So as each day came, I was able to go on, giving my best – even to those who didn't want it – knowing that my bilingual students fight with their parents and with each other; sometimes choose fashion over smarts, blow off homework and cram for tests, participate in sports, gather in cliques, marginalize others, and generally act like high school kids everywhere.

Sun can cause skin cancer for kid campers

Most adults are smart enough to know that the sun can prove quite damaging to the skin. Children, however, are a different story, a scary thought since children tend to spend more time in the sun than adults. For parents, protecting children from the sun is no easy task, as you can't be with your kids at all times, especially if kids are away at camp or if you're busy at work.

Parents and kids should know as well that a sunburn today can come back to haunt you tomorrow. According to the Skin Cancer Foundation, a bad sunburn during childhood can increase the risk of developing melanoma, the deadliest form of skin cancer, later in life. Such a reality can cause concern for parents of active children who might shun the sunblock or forget it entirely, not fully realizing the dangers of spending time under the sun without protection. But parents can take certain steps to ensure their children won't suffer sun damage this summer.

- Speak to camp counselors. If your child is heading off to camp, chances are exposure to sun is unavoidable, as most summer camps encourage outdoor activity. If you or your child is fair-skinned or even of a darker complexion, make sure the camp counselors know what type of sunscreen you want your child wearing. SPF 15 is recommended as the minimum, though parents of children with fair skin will want something a little higher. Regardless of your child's complexion, parents should recognize camp counselors will be playing the role of Mom or Dad and should make sure the counselors know this, too. Children can be difficult when it comes to applying sunscreen, but parents should make it known to counselors they hold them responsible for keeping their kids safe from the sun.

- Supply appropriate clothing. Adults and even teenagers may know enough to wear the right clothing when the sun is especially hot or the UV index is very high. Assuming children know as well is a bad assumption to make. Kids heading off to camp should pack appropriate clothing for those sizzling summer days when sun damage can truly wreak havoc. The Skin Cancer Foundation recommends broad-brimmed hats, which offer more protection than traditional baseball caps. Also, a light-colored long-sleeved shirt and even some light-colored pants should be packed along just in case. Children, too, can suffer damage to their eyes from too much sun, so packing some UV-protective sunglasses is a necessity as well. In addition, recommend to the camp and to your child that he swim with a shirt on to avoid exposing skin that is likely more susceptible to sun damage than most areas of the body.

- Ask to see an activities schedule. Though conflicting advice exists as to when the sun is most harmful, generally the hours between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. are recognized as particularly dangerous. Let your children know to be especially careful during these hours if they're not going to camp. If your child will be a camper this summer, ask for an activities schedule and whether or not there is ample shade available during activities between the aforementioned hours. Though most parents don't want their children lying around indoors all summer, doing so between the hours of 10 and 4 might not be all that bad.

LFH OB/GYN Department Chair hails cervical cancer vaccine

Dr. Robert Hartman, chairman of the Lake Forest Hospital (LFH) Department of OB/GYN, hails recent approval of the first vaccine to prevent cervical cancer as a life-saving breakthrough that all eligible women should seriously consider. Hartman, who's practiced in Lake Forest for nearly 30 years, says his office already is making plans to vaccinate as many of his patients as possible with Gardasil, which should be available by early July. He says more information about the vaccine soon will be available, and advises women to consult their gynecologist about whether it's right for them.

The Food and Drug Administration licensed Gardasil June 8 for use by females ages 9 to 26. The vaccine blocks four types of sexually transmitted HPV (human papillomavirus), two of which are responsible for up to 70 percent of the 10,000 cervical cancer cases diagnosed in the U.S. each year. The other two HPV types cause half of the 1 million genital warts cases reported annually in the U.S. Gardasil works best when given to girls before they become sexually active.

Cervical cancer kills an estimated 240,000 women worldwide, including 3,700 in the U.S. It's second only to breast cancer as the cause of cancer-related deaths in women. By age 50, about 80 percent of women have been infected with the virus that can cause cervical cancer.

A Centers for Disease Control panel meets later this month to consider an endorsement that would open the door to private insurance coverage. The vaccine, manufactured by Merck & Co., does not eliminate the need for regular cancer screenings and Pap smears because it does not protect against all types of HPV.

AIR FORCE

Air Force Airman Matthew Ford has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, in San Antonio, Tex. Airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force. Ford is the son of Matthew and Colette Ford of Lindenhurst. He is a 2004 graduate of Antioch Community High School.

Air Force Airman 1st Class Jacob Klemp has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, in San Antonio, Tex. Klemp is the son of Melvin and Carol Klemp of Lake Villa. In 2005, he received a bachelor's degree from Columbia College in Chicago.

Air Force Airman 1st Class Nicholas Freeman has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, in San Antonio, Tex. He is the grandson of Shirley Hadad of Antioch. Freeman is a 1999 graduate of Carmel High School, in Mundelein.

ARMY

Army 2nd Lt. David Ahern has graduated from the Infantry Officer Basic Course at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga. Students learn by performing and demonstrating proficiency in practical, external evaluation, and field tactical exercises. Graduates qualify as both mechanized and light infantry platoon leaders. Ahern is the son of Paul T. and Ursula M.

Ahern of Grayslake. The lieutenant is a graduate of Grayslake Community High School, and of Wheaton College.

Army Pvt. Dean Richter has graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C. He is the son of Elana Richter of Ingleside. Richter is a 2005 graduate of Grant Community High School, in Fox Lake.

Army Reserve Cadet Ethan Caldwell participated in the Little Susitna 50k run in South Central Alaska, south of Big Lake and past the Little Susitna River. The 31.1 mile race coursed over dog sled trains across frozen swamps and low ridges. The race is a shoot-off of the Idit-Sport, a multi-sport cross-country race which has been a staple for serious winter athletics. The goal is for runners of the 50k race to cross the finish line in six hours. The race builds physical endurance and prepares future Army leaders to be mentally tough in dealing with arduous conditions.

Caldwell is currently attending the University of Alaska, Fairbanks. He is the son of Jeffrey Caldwell of Lindenhurst. In 1993, he graduated from Antioch Community High School.

Army Reserve Pfc. Aaron Giertz has graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson in Columbia, S.C. Giertz is a 1987 graduate of Warren Township High School, in Gurnee.

Q: What can you tell me about Jim Cantore?

—Debra C. Tussey, South Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Cantore, a field weatherman who started working for The Weather Channel fresh out of college 15 years ago, frequently is dispatched to cover "extreme weather"—chasing tornadoes, riding out blizzards or waiting on monster hurricanes to make landfall. While he doesn't worry about being in harm's way, he knows his wife and two kids are concerned. "But they know that daddy won't be happy," Cantore says, "unless he's out swashbuckling in a storm."

Weatherman Jim Cantore

Q: What can you tell us about Guy Mitchell?

—Mary Bona, Sequim, Wash.

Mitchell, whose 1950s hits include "My Heart Cries for You" and "The Roving Kind," was born Al Cernick in Detroit, the son of Yugoslavian immigrant parents. His last No. 1, "Heartaches by the Number," came in 1959. He also had a handful of acting roles, most notably in the movies Those Redheads from Seattle (1953) and Red Garters (1954). He died in 1999 at age 72.

CMT

Bill Engvall Hosts Country Fried Videos

Good ol' greasy fun is the premise of CMT's Country Fried Home Videos, a new weekly series beginning June 30 at 9 p.m. ET/PT. Hosted by comedian Bill Engvall, the show features real videos shot by real people showing what real Americans do for offbeat entertainment—including mud-hole belly flopping, backyard "shotgun bowling" and bobbing for trout. It won't always be pretty... but it'll always be pretty funny!

Q: Is the Scott Grimes on ER the same Scott Grimes who has an album out?

—Mary Daly, Lebanon, Mo.

Yes, they are the same. Massachusetts-born Grimes, 34, began his career at age 10 as a singer on Broadway and later traveled with Bob Hope on USO tours. As an actor, he had roles on TV's Party of Five and Band of Brothers and in the movies Crimson Tide, Critters and Mystery, Alaska. Portraying Dr. Archie Morris on ER for the past three years, he's also managed to keep together a band, Scott Grimes and the Misdemeanors (of which his wife, Dawn, also is a member), touring and performing on weekends. Last year, Grimes released a CD called Living on the Run.

Scott Grimes on ER

Q: I've fallen for Kari Matchett, who plays the brainy, beautiful Dr. Underlay on Invasion. What can you tell me about her, including how to correctly pronounce her name?

—S. Cherry, Findlay, Ohio

The Invasion actress (who pronounces her name KAH-ree MATCH-it) was born in rural Spalding, Saskatchewan, where passing motorists today can see a sign welcoming them to her birthplace. Matchett, 35, attended theatrical school in Montreal and later Russia, and began working almost immediately after graduation in television on the A&E mini-series Five Days to Midnight, the CBS movie A Very Merry Christmas, the Sci-Fi Network series Earth Final Conflict and the FOX-TV series Wonderfalls. For her biggest role yet, in the aliens-among-us series Invasion, she relocated earlier this year to Los Angeles, where she enjoys running, yoga and living half a block from something she never had back in Saskatchewan: a beach. ✨

Kari Matchett stars in TV's Invasion.

Pitcher Punch

divided 3 tea bags
4 lemons
1 and 1/2 cups sugar
almond extract
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Dash of salt

Boil 2 cups water and pour over tea bags in a glass container. Steep for 20 minutes. Squeeze juice from lemons, reserving juice and rinds. In a large pot, bring remaining 2 cups water to a boil. Add lemon rinds to boiling water. Add sugar. Simmer until slightly thickened, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and remove lemon rinds. Let cool. Squeeze and remove tea bags. Combine lemon-sugar syrup and tea. Strain reserved lemon juice and add to tea mixture along with vanilla, almond extract and salt. Mix well and refrigerate. To serve, pour 1/3 to 1/2 cup mixture over ice and top with about 1/2 cup of water. Yields 5 and 1/3 cups tea mixture.

New Advanced portable air cooler uses 75% - 95% less electricity than portable air conditioners

FILTER

Now You Can Cool Your Air 12-20 Degrees and Purify Your Air Removing 99.7% of Particles AT THE SAME TIME

Cools Large Areas - 200 sq ft - Uses Only Water & Ice - No Venting

By: B. Inboden

Believe it or not, there are people who can look forward to the heat of summer because they know they can:

- stay cool
- have their air purified
- and save money on their electric bill...

What do they know that you don't? They are using the new CoolAir 3000 Air Cooler, an evaporative cooler, with a built-in HEPA filter. With energy costs skyrocketing, smart consumers everywhere are looking for reliable ways to stay cool, bypassing air conditioners which are expensive to buy and use a great deal of electricity.

That's why the CoolAir 3000 is so revolutionary. It is based on a basic technology that has been updated for 21st century living. To understand the many benefits of the CoolAir 3000 we've compiled the most asked questions so you will know exactly how it works and how it can keep you cool, clean your air and save you money.

Q. What is the technology behind the CoolAir 3000?

A. The CoolAir 3000 is an evaporative cooler which produces effective cooling by combining the natural process of water evaporation with a simple reliable air moving system, like a fan or a blower.

Q. How does evaporative cooling work?

A. If you wet your arm and blow air on it your skin feels cooler. That's evaporative cooling. In an evaporative cooler, outside air is pulled through moist pads where it is cooled by evaporation. Evaporation is an endothermic reaction, it absorbs heat. So the air that goes through the pads has had heat absorbed out of it. This cooler air is then circulated through the room by a blower. The pads are kept moist by the water you pour into the water tank.

Q. How effective is the evaporative cooling?

A. On the average, the CoolAir 3000 can lower the temperature 12-20 degrees. With optimum conditions, it can lower temperatures as much as 35 degrees. A great deal depends on the humidity in the air. Evaporative coolers work best when humidity is below 50%.

Q. Why does an evaporative cooler save so much electricity?

A. Because the technology is so basic, the electricity is used mainly to run the fan or blower. This takes about the same amount of electricity as using a lightbulb. In air conditioning, for instance, the electricity must power a compressor which is much more complex and involves high energy usage.

Q. How does the Cool Air 3000 clean the air?

A. This is where new technology meets tried and true technology. We have added a HEPA (High Efficiency Particulate Filter) to the CoolAir 3000. This is a perfect addition to the CoolAir 3000 because the combination of the HEPA filter and the fan turns the CoolAir 3000 into an air purifier removing 99.7% of particles from the air. This includes dust, pollen, germs, viruses, fungi, and pet dander. This is in contrast to the portable air conditioner which just recycles the same air over and over and over. You have probably heard that inhouse air pollution is worse than outdoor air pollution. And closed-door/window air conditioning is one of the reasons for this discouraging phenomenon.

Air purifiers can cost hundreds of dollars but with one CoolAir 3000, you get a top quality air purifier as part of the package.

Q. Why would a person choose a CoolAir 3000 over a portable air conditioner?

A. The biggest reason is cost. The CoolAir 3000 costs under $200 while portable air conditioners run between $450.00 and $799.00. As mentioned, air conditioners can also use at least 4 times as much electricity as air coolers.

In recent years people have become much more conscious of health enhancing features, so the addition of the HEPA filter is a major benefit for everyone who is trying to improve the quality of the air he or she breathes safely and inexpensively.

The other big benefit of the CoolAir 3000 is that even though it can cool a large area, 200 square feet, it does not need a vent. All air conditioners, portable or not, must have a way to vent off hot air. You can put the CoolAir 3000 anywhere there is an outlet since there is no hot air to vent away. You can move it from room to room on its easy glide casters to fit your schedule and needs.

Q. Can I use the CoolAir 3000 in conjunction with other cooling devices?

A. That is the way many people are using the CoolAir 3000. People who have whole house air conditioning use the CoolAir 3000 in places where the air conditioning does not reach. Air coolers are perfect for the sun room where you can have the windows open and stay cool with the CoolAir 3000.

They are also great for the office, condo, RV and dorm room.

Q. Is the CoolAir 3000 easy to use?

A. Absolutely. All you do is add water and turn it on. Add ice for even cooler temperatures. A full tank can last over 24 hours even with continuous use. There is a handy water level indicator so you know exactly where and when to refill.

If you do not want to use the water cooling feature, the CoolAir 3000 can also function as a quiet, powerful 3-speed fan. The louvers on the front help you direct the air flow in the desired direction.

You also receive a remote control so you can use all the functions from the comfort of your easy chair or even from bed.

Q. How can consumers get a CoolAir 3000?

A. You can only get the CoolAir 3000 from International Home Shopping, by returning your Special Reader's Discount Coupon at right or by calling 1-800-466-9973. You can also visit us online at www.ihsmall.com.

Russ Schutte, of Monroe, Wis. (pop. 10,843), sits behind the wheel of the 1976 Chevy Impala that he has spent hundreds of hours and a few thousand dollars rebuilding.

This is not, however, your average Saturday night car cruise.

Wearing his lucky helmet and his seatbelt, Russ, 52, shifts into reverse, guns the Chevy engine, and slams his back bumper into one of the dozen other cars circling the large dirt oval in front of the grandstands of the Mississippi Valley Fairgrounds in Davenport, Iowa, last September.

The other drivers, including Russ' younger brother, Tory, 34, do the same, and the cars—mostly 1970s sedans and station wagons—smash together in the kinds of crashes you'd normally only see in Hollywood action movies.

Mud from spinning tires flies into the stands and pelts some of the 1,000 fans. Flames shoot from exhaust pipes that stick straight up through holes cut into the car hoods. Steam and fluid spew from punctured radiators. Smoke billows from burning tires and failing motors. The crowd roars.

It's a familiar scene at county fairgrounds across the nation during the heart of the May-through-September fair season. Every year in the United States, an estimated 100,000 drivers crash, bang and zoom their cars in 3,000 demolition derbies from coast to coast.

The derbies range from 10-car crash-ups to mega events such as the annual Metal Mayhem in Oregon, Ill., where 5,000 fans warch 200 cars compete for $15,000 in prize money. The more unusual derbies feature colliding school buses, motorcycles or farm machinery.

Demolition derby's roots

Many consider the now-closed Islip Speedway in Long Island, N.Y., to be the birthplace of organized demolition derbies. In the late 1950s, Larry Mendelsohn, a 28-year-old stock car driver, observed that the crashes drew the most cheers and organized an event billed as "a night full of car wrecks."

"Larry is one of the most overlooked guys in motor sports," says Marty Himes, owner of The Himes Museum of Motor Racing Nostalgia in Bay Shore, N.Y. "He was a genius. Just look at the legacy he left."

By the 1960s, demo derbies—and the Islip Speedway—were regularly featured on ABC's Wide World of Sports.

"The first time I saw a derby on TV, I couldn't believe it," Russ Schutte says. "It was the coolest thing I'd ever seen. When a derby came to the (Green County) fairgrounds, I entered a junker. I was a one-hit wonder. One hit and I was done."

That was 1968, and Russ was hooked.

"It's everything a gearhead could love," Russ says. "You get to build a car, smash it, then build it again."

Through the years, 12 of Russ' 16 brothers and sisters, who range in age from 32 to 60—and a few of their children—have driven in an estimated 300 demo derbies and won trophies and cash prizes in more than 100 events throughout the upper Midwest.

In 2000, a love for the sport prompted Tory to form the Demolition Derby Drivers Association, a 5,500-member group that supports standardized track rules across the country. The association's website, www.wecrash.com, features an events calendar, classified ads with 600 demo cars for sale, and car-building tips and techniques.

"We don't charge for memberships in the association," says Tory, a Navy recruiter. "I just wanted to give something back to the drivers. I want people to love the sport as much as I do."

Family tradition

Last September, Tory drove 1,600 miles in three days from his home in El Paso, Texas, to spend a weekend building, and then smashing, the 1976 Chevy station wagon that he hauled on a trailer to Russ' house in Wisconsin.

For two days before the derby, a dozen Schutte family members and friends put the finishing touches on Russ' and Tory's cars. The occasional white flash of arc welding, the sound of sledgehammers on steel, and the smell of fresh spray paint filled Russ' garage, which primarily serves as a 32-by-42-foot demo derby car workshop.

The self-taught mechanics welded and hammered bumpers to the frame and painted Tory's station wagon Green Bay Packer green. Russ' wife, Cindy, who has attended nearly every demo event with her husband since the mid-1970s, packed lunches—and aspirin—for the four-hour round trip to Iowa.

"That is what it's all about," Russ says. "Spending time together as a family. I guess it's what they call bonding. With 17 kids in the family, we didn't get to do a lot of that growing up. This workshop is like our sandbox."

Tory drove his wreck to a third-place finish.

Russ relaxes in his demolished Chevrolet, bound for his garage in Monroe, Wis.

The Schuttes number their demo cars based on birth order. Russ, the fourth oldest, drives the No. 4 car. Youngest sibling and regular derby driver Ryan, 32, drives the No. 17 car.

Russ' daughter, Vicki, 24, is one of the rare female drivers—an estimated 2 percent—in the world of demo derbies. She's driven in a dozen derbies since winning a women-only event in 2001.

"It's something I can relate to the guys in the family with," says Vicki who, as Russ' oldest child, drives the '4a' car. "It's one time I know we can all hang out together. And when I drive, there's something pretty powerful in taking out my road rage on someone else."

Track rules

The requirements for demo cars are simple: Remove the windows, move the battery to the passenger side floor and replace the original gas tank with a small tank in the back seat.

Attention to detail, though, is what separates one-hit wonders from winners.

"A car shifts a lot when you hit it at 30 miles per hour," Russ says. "We strip the cars down to the frame, then completely rebuild them. We put in motors that can take a lot of abuse. We put a lot of time into protecting the wires and distributor cap and the radiator and hoses. We can spend an entire night welding one bumper."

The average Schutte car costs from $500 to $3,000. They spend an estimated 100 man-hours preparing each car for derby competition.

"And," Tory asks, "do they get to feel like human gladiators?"

Demolition derby rules are simple: Don't hit a driver's side door. Sandbaggers—drivers who spend more time avoiding crashes than causing them—get disqualified. The last car moving wins.

Derby night

During the final event in Davenport, Russ and Tory never got a chance to go head to head on the track. Just a few minutes after the starter's flag dropped, Russ' rear bumper got hooked to another car and, vulnerable, his Chevy Impala took a direct hit that bent the car's front end straight up in the air.

"The distributor cap exploded," Russ says, "and every piece of metal in the car became an electrical conductor. It was, for me, a shocking experience. At least until I turned the engine off." He finished 12th.

Tory landed a number of solid hits with his station wagon and knocked out three cars. He finally got wedged into a corner—against one of the concrete barricades that surround the track—and couldn't work his way out. He took home $300 and a 3-foot-high, third-place trophy that eventually will make its way to the family's collection displayed on Russ' living room table.

Long after the last fans exited the grandstands, Russ winched his car, with the front bumper sticking up higher than the car's roof, onto his flat bed trailer. "It doesn't look too bad," Russ says. "If we can't straighten the body out, we'll just buy another car and start all over again."

"It's really just a good excuse to spend some time with family and friends. And then spend another Saturday night wrecking some cars." ☆

Hometown Spotlight

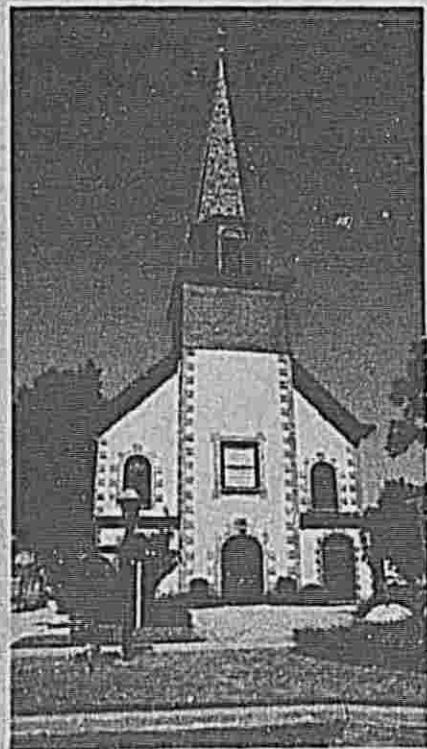

On the morning of the Fourth of July in Fishkill, N.Y. (pop. 1,750), residents Jim Pagones and his wife, Joan, stand atop the steps of the community hall—Van Wyck Hall—to carry on the 104-year-old Fishkill tradition of reading aloud the Declaration of Independence. The event draws hundreds of patriotic spectators from the state's mid-Hudson Valley region who gather on the street and sidewalk to hear the words crafted by America's founding fathers in 1776.

"I feel honored," says Joan, 58, a town supervisor. "It's such a thrill and a privilege, and the children who are here today will carry on this tradition to the next generation."

"The Declaration of Independence is as alive today as the day (Thomas) Jefferson wrote it," adds Jim, 55, a Dutchess County surrogate court judge.

Before the reading takes place, the crowd sings a rousing version of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the bell at the 1731 Dutch Reformed Church tolls once for each year since 1776. Last year, Toni Houston and Roy Carruthers, who regularly ring the bell for Sunday morning services, pulled the bell's rope 229 times.

The church is an appropriate part of the Fourth of July celebration. During the American Revolution in the fall of 1776, the New York Provincial Congress met there to conduct business and write a constitution for the new State of New York. Among the delegates were Hudson Valley natives Robert Livingston, who helped draft the Declaration of Independence; his cousin Philip Livingston, who signed it; and John Jay, who became the first Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Dutch Reformed Church

The annual reading began in memory of Henry DuBois Van Wyck, a native son who ventured west, made a fortune in the California gold rush and returned home. Van Wyck served as the first mayor when Fishkill was incorporated in 1899. He also built Van Wyck Hall as a working theater with the intention of giving it to the town, but died before his wishes could be carried out. Later, his heirs fulfilled that wish and made an informal request that the Declaration of Independence be read aloud at the hall to honor their uncle's memory and his love of country.

"There is nothing in writing that says this should be done," says Fishkill historian Karen Hitt. "It's just a custom that has continued unbroken since the first reading in 1902."

Joan Pagones and Jim Miccio

On a dreary, rainy July Fourth. Undaunted, they stood outside on the steps and recited the Declaration just to keep the tradition alive, with no one but Taylor's dog for an audience. In succeeding years, Bogardus served as the reader and helped spread the word as new families moved to the area.

Declaring America's Independence

A crowd gathers outside Van Wyck Hall in Fishkill, N.Y., awaiting the annual Fourth of July reading of the Declaration of Independence.

Since Bogardus' death in 1983, people from all walks of life—teachers, homemakers, a Gulf War veteran and historians—have been chosen to read the Declaration. There is no set policy on choosing each year's new reader, according to Hitt, who arranges the annual festivities with a committee and the Fishkill Historical Society.

Once the Pagoneses conclude their 20-minute reading, spectators file inside Van Wyck Hall to sign a guest book and celebrate the nation's birthday with slices of red, white and blue birthday cake donated by local merchants.

"It's not the fanciest celebration," Mayor Jim Miccio says. "But it's one of the best. It lets us know the meaning of why we celebrate." ☆

While not conclusive, scientific evidence suggests that OsteoValin may help the body reduce bone deterioration and build new bone mass through natural down-regulation of osteoclast production and upregulation of osteoblast activity.

Tidbits

Did You Know...

ILLINOIS—The famous question—"Will it play in Peoria?"—originated during the 1920s vaudeville era when new stage shows were booked in Peoria to test audience reaction. Peoria was considered a typical heart-of-America town.

INDIANA—One of the nation's oldest football "trophies" is the Old Oaken Bucket, awarded since 1925 in the annual game between Purdue University in West Lafayette (pop. 28,778) and Indiana University in Bloomington. The century-old bucket, covered in moss and in need of repair, was found on a southern Indiana farm and designated a suitable trophy for the winner of the in-state rivalry.

IOWA—Built in 1886, St. Anthony of Padua Chapel near Festina in Winneshiek County (pop. 21,310) offers a little piece of heaven to visitors. The chapel measures only 14 feet by 20 feet, seats eight and is among the smallest in America.

KANSAS—After restoring more than 50 antique pump organs, Dick Rhea orchestrated them into a pump organ museum in downtown Sharon Springs (pop. 835). The organs date from the late 1800s to early 1900s.

MICHIGAN—Sanctuary and Safe Haven for Animals, or SASHA Farm, in Manchester (pop. 4,102) is among the largest farm-animal sanctuaries in the Midwest, offering shelter to more than 200 animals that have been neglected or discarded.

MINNESOTA—Madison (pop. 1,768) is the self-proclaimed "Lutefisk Capital of the World," where the town mascot is a 25-foot-long codfish statue aptly named Lou T. Fisk. Loved or loathed, lutefisk is a traditional Scandinavian dish of dried cod treated with lye. Lutefisk-eating contests are held during Madison's annual Norsefest each November.

MISSOURI—The Butler (pop. 4,209) Public Library is endowed by pioneering science fiction writer Robert Heinlein (1907-1988), who was born in Butler, and his wife, Virginia (1916-2003). The library houses many autographed and first editions of Heinlein's books, including Strangers in a Strange Land and The Moon is a Harsh Mistress.

NEBRASKA—An obsolete Titan 1 intercontinental ballistic missile stands in a park in Kimball (pop. 2,559), once known as "Missile Center-U.S.A." because of the hundreds of missile silos built near the town in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

NORTH DAKOTA—A 400-pound, 6-foot-in-diameter bronze replica of the state's Great Seal was unveiled in February in the Capitol's Memorial Hall in Bismarck (pop. 55,532).

OHIO—In 1920, Youngstown candy maker Harry Burt created ice cream on a stick with his Good Humor Bar, so called because it was believed a person's "humor" or temperament was related to the humor of his palate or taste.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Jewel Cave near Custer (pop. 1,860) is the world's second longest cave. Spelunkers spent four days underground in January and explored an additional 3,700 feet, bringing the cave's total explored length to 135 miles and 10 feet.

WISCONSIN—In the winter, volunteers in Junction City (pop. 440) saw blocks of ice from frozen ponds and store them in a metal icehouse. During the summer, the ice is sold to benefit community projects. ☆

Grandmom's Precious Jewels

P E N D A N T

There's always room on her lap...and in her heart...for one more grandchild. That's why a grandma's love is so special.

Now she can show her love with an original birthstone pendant from Lenox. Crafted of solid sterling silver, this open-heart pendant has "Grandmom" spelled out in 24 karat gold electroplate. Her birthstone glistens in the center. And one birthstone for each of her precious grandchildren (up to 10) sparkles within the heart.

Genuine gemstones

Each birthstone is a genuine gem. Diamond, sapphire, ruby, emerald...each as brilliant as grandma's love. And they can be arranged within the pendant in the order she wishes (see the Order Form).

Pendant and gems shown actual size. Each birthstone is a genuine gem, individually hand set.

Grandmom's Precious Jewels Pendant is available direct from Lenox at $95, payable in convenient monthly installments. A Certificate of Authenticity and 20-inch sterling silver chain accompany the pendant.

Order this imported Lenox® pendant today—for yourself or as meaningful gift. Lenox guarantees your complete satisfaction.

Profiles in History

KELLY

Grandmother to the Nation

Her name was Anna Mary Robertson Moses, but the nation knew her as Grandma. She didn't start painting until age 77, but she lived to become one of America's most popular artists.

Grandma Moses (1860-1961) left behind an evocative record of rural America in a simpler era. She grew up during the Civil War on a farm in upstate New York, married and raised five children. As a widow and grandmother, she began to paint her memories of farm life—Thanksgiving dinners, maple sugaring and winter sleigh rides. In 1939, an art collector discovered her paintings in a drugstore window. Before long, the notion of the "painting grandma" captured the public's imagination, and her images were appearing on greeting cards, lamps, drapes and many other household products. She painted more than 1,600 works before her death at 101.

To learn more about this captivating and spirited lady, American Profile interviewed Karal Ann Marling, whose new book, Designs on the Heart: The Homemade Art of Grandma Moses, provides a portrait of the painter in the context of her time.

AP: Why take a fresh look at Grandma Moses in the 21st century?

KAM: Some critics have done her the disservice of shunting her into the category of "primitive" artist or pop culture icon. But Grandma Moses first became popular in the 1940s and 1950s because her work represented the values our soldiers were fighting for and offered reassurance during the anxious period of the Cold War. Today, we are again looking for order in an increasingly disordered world. Grandma Moses and her work evoke some of the bedrock American values: independence, self-confidence, family, simplicity and tradition.

Grandma Moses: Grandmother to the Nation opened May 27 at the Fenimore Art Museum in Cooperstown, N.Y., and over the next two years the exhibit will travel to museums in Winston-Salem, N.C., Chattanooga, Tenn., Sacramento, Calif., and Sarasota, Fla. Visit www.fenimoreartmuseum.org/exhibitions/moses.htm for more information.

Self-taught artist Grandma Moses in 1947

AP: What did you learn about her that surprised you?

KAM: Her character. I had known about her work, but I didn't understand what a gallant soul she was. Here was a woman who went to work at age 12, who toiled hard all her life, who made the most of the little schooling she had, who sewed her own clothes and who was still active at 101—she was a truly admirable person. Her attitude toward money is especially refreshing today. Having come out a rural economy where cash didn't mean much, she never paid it much mind. She would deprecate the monetary value of her paintings; she was proud of them simply as paintings.

AP: Does Grandma Moses have something to say to baby boomers?

SPECIAL GRANDMA MOSES BOOK OFFER!

Beautifully illustrated with 68 color artworks, Designs on the Heart: The Homemade Art of Grandma Moses, brings to life the story and art of a true American icon. You will learn that while millions were falling in love with the art of this unlikely hero, the New York art establishment openly despised her! (Over 300 pages, 8.4 inches by 9.3 inches.)

To order Designs on the Heart for $35.00 + delivery, visit www.americanprofile.com/store or please have your credit card ready and call (800) 715-6248 or send check for $39.95 to Grandma Moses Offer—Dept. AP, P.O. Box 340, Harrison, AR 72602.

CA, TN, IL, AR, NY residents add state sales tax. NSF checks automatically debited for amount of check plus applicable fees. Offer expires 8/25/06. Please allow 2-4 weeks for delivery. Satisfaction guaranteed or we will refund your purchase price less s&h.

KAM: Certainly, she could serve as the role model of someone who stayed active all her life. She was always full of curiosity and willing to try something new. She wasn't the type to retire to Florida. Her mantra was work, and she found in work a source of satisfaction and self-respect. Grandma Moses is a poster girl for living well indefinitely through vigorous mental activity, good humor and strong family ties.

AP: What new perspective will the book offer on this familiar artist?

KAM: It gives a sense of how she fit into the culture of her time. Her work is often seen as being timeless. I wanted to show that the enormous popularity Grandma Moses enjoyed resulted from the fact that her art spoke to people of the period in which she worked. It was a new era of television and tail fins, and though we wanted to gain these things, we didn't want to lose our root values.

AP: You call her "the Nation's Grandma." Why?

KAM: "Grandma" really brought out the fact that her art, her memories, her statements to the press, all were grounded in family. The name was both important and true. It didn't obscure her contribution as an artist. Instead, it put a finger on the essence of what made her special. ☆
